Ohio Air Guard Put on Alert For Active Duty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 1,500 Ohio Air National guardsmen today wondered when and how many of them will be recalled to active duty.

The Ohio units were among 71 Air National Guard and Air Reserve groups alerted by the Air Force Tuesday for possible call-up. They were designated as priority outfits for federal service if a summons is issued.

The Ohio units notified are: 121st Tactical Fighter Wing headquarters at Lockbourne Air Force Base south of Columbus, 166th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Lockbourne, 162nd Tactical Fighter Squadron at Springfield Municipal Airport, 164th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Mansfield Municipal Airport.

The 112th Tactical Fighter squadron at Toledo Express Airport, assigned for operational purposes to the Indiana Air Guard, also was alerted as was the 123rd Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron at Blue Ash near Cincinnati.

How many of the citizen-airmen will be called to duty appears to depend on where the activated units are sent. Officials said if the unit is sent to a well established base, probably only pilots and aircraft will be called up. But if the unit is sent to a base not as well established, all support personnel, mechanics, air police, food service, etc., probably would be activated.

When the call will come and how long duty will be for also are unanswered questions.

Unofficially, it has been estimated that the call — if it comes — will be within two months. The length of time that such units might serve is thought to be at least one year.

Recall is nothing new for the 166th and 112th squadrons. Both were activated during the Korean conflict. One officer's wife probably summed up the feeling of all the squadron members. When she heard of the alert she exclaimed: "Oh, no, not again!"

Training is continuing at a normal pace. The 112th last month made a 3,200-mile simulated ocean crossing flight. The entire trip, however, was within the United States.

The 123rd and 166th squadrons are scheduled to go to the Carolinas this weekend to take part in the joint Army-Air Force "Exercise Swift Strike" for two weeks. The other 121st Wing units, all commanded by Col. Dale E. Shafer Jr. of Germantown, are to go to Alpena, Mich., for two weeks of training.

The announcement Tuesday came after President Kennedy signed legislation authorizing him to call to active duty up to 250,000 reservists and extend active duty tours and enlistments by one year.

It follows Air Force announcement Monday that four Air Force bases, slated to be retired from active use, would remain on active status to provide facilities for continued operation of B47 jet bombers which will be retained in service.

Some 240 bombers and tankers slated to give way to later model aircraft will continue in use instead of being deactivated.

The 64 Air National Guard and 7 Reserve units alerted Tuesday fly tactical fighters, reconnaissance planes and transports. About 750 aircraft are involved, including about 100 transports.

The units were authorized to bring themselves up to full strength, which means they must recruit about 5,000 men. Present strength is about 28,000.

The alert involved units in 28 states and the District of Columbia. This included National Guard units in 26 states and the District and Air Force ready Reserve units in five states, two of which were not involved in the National Guard alerts.

Police, Firemen Pay Raise Stalled

A motion calling for the introduction of two ordinances pertaining to pay raises for Circleville Fire and Police Department personnel failed last night in City Council.

The motion by Councilman David Crawford died for lack of a second. The motion probably will be presented again at the next Council meeting.

An average raise of about 10 per cent has been asked by city police. A straight 10 per cent hike has been requested by all members of the fire department.

The average 10 per cent raise for the police chief, three sergeants, eight patrolmen and one special patrolman would amount to a total increase of $5,221.80 for one year.

According to the new wage scale, hourly rate increases would range from about 14 cents per hour for beginning regular patrolmen to about 25 cents per hour for sergeants.

The requested fire department total increase would amount to $1,908.90 for one year. This would include straight 10 per cent raises for the chief, two lieutenants, regular firemen, beginning firemen and new firemen completing 9-day probationary periods.

Several councilmen listed the lack of money as the reason for not being in favor of the raises at this time. Fire Lt. Noble Barr and Police Sgt. Leroy Hawkes, representing their departments at the meeting, said the necessary money is in departmental appropriations.

Councilmen Charles Kirkpatrick and John Jenkins said they were of the opinion the wage ordinances should be introduced later in the year or the first of next year in view of a present tight financial situation.

Councilmen D. J. Carpenter and Harold Clifton contended that Council should first be approached by Safety Director Miller Fissell before any action is taken. Fissell was unable to attend the meeting due to illness.

Councilman Crawford, a member of the Council's Safety Committee along with Clifton and Boyd Horn, asked fellow lawmakers if they desired further work and study on the proposal. It was agreed that the matter will be taken up again at the next meeting scheduled August 15.

Police and firemen received their last wage increases in 1959. The raises then averaged from five to seven per cent.

Monotones Are Named Talent Test Winners

A handsome Circleville area boy and a trim lass from Logan Elm today are exercising their rule as the new King and Queen of the Pickaway County Fair.

The new Queen is Carol Torchick, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Torchick, Route 1. Reigning as King is David McDonald, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McDonald, Dunkel Road.

Runnersup in the annual contest were Gene Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Long, Williamsport, and Linda Sharpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sharpe, also of Williamsport.

Selections were made last night in front of the Grandstand. Serving as judges were Ned Schreiner and Doyle Painter of Circleville and two professional models from Columbus.

QUEEN TORCHICK is an attractive young student at Logan Elm High School. She is in her seventh year of 4-H work with the Logan Elm Livestock Club. Her advisers are her father and Willard and Ralph England.

King McDonald is a popular red-head who was graduated from Circleville High School in June. He participated in football and wrestling and in many school activities.

In his fifth year of 4-H work, young McDonald is a member of the Pickaway Soil Savers Club. His advisers are Donald Archer and Casey Neal.

Miss Torchick and McDonald were selected from a field of 10 boys and 10 girls. Judges listed the competition as being close throughout.

The King and Queen assumed their positions of royalty following the contest last night, replacing last year winners Norman Wilson and Karen Trump. The new reigning figures will preside for the remainder of the fair.

The Talent contest, conducted along with the King and Queen test, was won by the "Monotones", a smart group of singers composed of Ned Musselman, Norman Wilson and Ralph England. They were accompanied by Sharon Sharrett.

THEIR talent consisted of a medley of a song from the Broadway play and film "South Pacific." Second place in the Talent test went to Miss Lorna Poling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4. She sang "Whistle a Happy Tune" from the Broadway play "The King and I."

Third place went to Linda Sharpe, Peggy Clark and Sue Rihl, better known as "Three Sharpes, and a Flat." Accompanied by Mrs. Paul Drummond, they sang a medley of songs from "The Sound of Music."

A tap dance by Melissa Matz earned fourth place. Fifth spot went to Becky Akire for her pantomime of the song "Honeybun."

City Accepts Ridgewood No. 2 Plat

City Council last night passed an ordinance accepting the plat of section 2 of the Ridgewood Subdivision.

The Ridgewood section, owned by Raymond P. and Mary R. Rader, was approved last week by the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. The ordinance accepting the plat was passed on a 6-0 vote following a suspension of rules.

Sewers, water lines and curbs and gutters were inspected last week by the Planning and Zoning unit and approved. The general plat also was approved by Burgess & Niple Consulting Engineers prior to the P&Z decision.

The plat was finally accepted after it had gone to Planning and Zoning for the second time two weeks ago. At that time Council was unable to determine whether or not a suitable grade had been established.

THE grade question came to light following a complaint from a resident of Ridgewood Section No. 1 who was not assured of the grade existing in the area.

A further study by the planning and Zoning Commission resolved that a true grade had been established.

Ridgewood section 1 was accepted by the city more than two years ago.

Township, Village Petitions Received

Additional nominating petitions seeking to place three incumbent officials and two first-term candidates on the November ballot have been returned to the Pickaway County Board of Elections office.

Filing to run for another term are: Marvin Lester Cook, of Williamsport, who will try for another term as a village councilman; David H. Dunnick, of Ashville, a current Harrison Twp. trustee; and Lawrence R. Liston, 151 Watt St., ve'eran Circleville Twp. board of trustees member.

Kenneth I. Riegel, Route 3, Circleville, will attempt to gain a first term as a Walnut Twp. trustee in the Nov. 7 election.

Ernest C. Bidwell, of Route 1, Orient, will enter Scioto Twp. political affairs for the first time as a candidate for the board of trustees. The deadline for filing petitions is Aug. 9.

Cubans Experience Bitter Strain in Fleeing Their Homeland

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP news analyst William L. Ryan is just back from a short visit in Cuba and here reports on the problems of Cubans who seek to leave their homeland and find a new life in the United States.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
"Visit Cuba, and of happy people," says the lettering on cardboard boxes of rum offered for sale to travelers.

You smile bitterly. You are a traveler, a refugee from your own country. You are one of yet another 20,000 the United States has promised to absorb. Before the day is out you hope to escape, to join the many tens of thousands who already have left.

Your goal is close — so very close. But this will be the most anxious, the most tense day of all. You have with you all the worldly possessions you can carry on an airplane to Florida. All the rest is left behind.

For months you have undergone the mental strain of waiting — lines for visas, line for exit permits, lines for plane tickets, lines for everything — Lines flitting ahead through the agonizing labyrinth of Fidel Castro's revolutionary bureaucracy. Now, at last you are at the airport. It will be the last day, if you are lucky. The last hours are the hardest of all.

You finally get to check your baggage. It is sent out to customs. There is nothing to do now but wait and wait. It gets hotter by the minute as the afternoon wears on and the passengers mill about the small waiting room. Once you are there you dare not leave. A window has been broken, and the room's air conditioning does no good.

You wait and wait and wait. Children are wailing, irritated by the heat and the long, exhausting vigil. It is 4 p.m. Anxious eyes scan the skies through the waiting room windows. The American plane hasn't appeared.

It wouldn't have mattered if it did show up on time. The customs people were a long way from finished. Then here were the interrogations by the G-2, Castro's intelligence people.

For many there would be intensive and often seemingly pointless questioning. There would be suspicion; the dread of being turned back, just at about the last moment. Some a relatively few — know the bitterness already.

The intelligence men are in and out of the waiting room and all eyes follow them. One G-2 man makes a cruel joke. He taps two young girls on the shoulders and asks for their papers. They go pale. Then he laughs at his own joke and hands the papers back. But others are taken away. Few will know the bitterness of losing at the last minute.

The plane finally appears. There is excitement. Little girls hastily put on their hats; mothers make a last minute fuss over wailing infants.

The customs and G-2 people finally have finished. The plane is called. Passengers' names are called out for boarding, one at a time, 110 of them.

Finally you hear your name. Hastily you gather in your bit of hand luggage and head for the ramp. You get in your seat in the crowded tourist plane, and you wait again. It is hot. The plane has been in the blazing sun for hours.

Now all eyes are turned toward the crowds of Cubans lining the railings on the terminal roof, waving goodbye. There are no smiles. Only the tears of men, women and children. Many of those left behind weep. Now the plane is aloft, and the tension lifts. You can feel it.

Finally, the plane touches down in Miami. You join the others in a spontaneous outburst of applause. The steward, smiling, says "Welcome to the United States," and you and the others applaud wildly again. You go down the steps.

Next to you is a weary looking man, in tears. He releases his grip on the hands of a child and kneels on the concrete, crosses himself, and says a prayer.

Another holds a box of the rum they sell travelers. On the box it says: "Visit Cuba, land of happy people."

And you remember the tears on the faces of those you left behind.

Rain Slows Show Activity

Judging, Races, Thrill Event Scheduled Today

Rain go away and stay away! This was the fervent plea of faithful Pickaway County fairgoers today.

Spirits were dampened again yesterday as rain cut loose about 3:30 p. m. and lasted most of the evening. As expected, the crowd was small and mud puddles flourished.

Yesterday's downpour followed on the heels of Monday evening's showers which cramped an otherwise enthusiastic opening. Today's outlook is little better, with more of the same distasteful showers on the weather forecast.

Although rain cast its gloomy spell yesterday, it did not stop a busy day of judging of various exhibits — nor did it halt three harness races which came to a successful conclusion shortly before the real downpours hit.

LAST night's atmosphere was damp, but the popular King and Queen and Talent contests were conducted as scheduled. The bright and eager faces of new King David McDonald and new Queen Carol Torchick were wondrous aids in brightening a damp picture.

If rain holds off long enough, three more harness races are on tap today, with post time set for 2 p. m. Also on the bill is the tractor pull, a pet parade, 4-H demonstrations and numerous judging events.

Again if weather permits, the Hurricane Hell Drivers thrill show will be a special highlight at 8 p. m. in front of the Grandstand. Washed out horse shoe pitching qualifications also are slated.

Thursday's show will spotlight full scale judging, a continuation of the tractor pull, the final day of harness racing and championship auto races at the Grandstand area.

86 A-Plant Aides Fired

WAVERTLY, Ohio (AP) — Good-year Atomic Corp., operators of the Atomic Energy Commission's plant in Pike County, has announced a reduction in the work force involving about 86 employees.

Budget Boost, Levy Request Authorized by School Board

A budget calling for an increase of approximately $60,000 to operate Circleville's school system in 1962 was approved after extended study last night by the City Board of Education. Also receiving official sanction was a move to place a 4.0 mill operating levy before city voters in the November election.

Meeting in Superintendent of Schools George Hartman's office, the board members examined most of the individual items on the budget prepared by board clerk Virgil Cress before voting unanimously to up the 1962 figures to about $900,000.

This total contrasts with the estimated $840,000 required to operate the city's schools through this year. No bond retirement or cafeteria operation expenses are included in either sum.

The increase is due predominantly to the scheduled opening of additional classroom space in new schools plus normal rises in the cost of utilities, maintenance services and teacher's salaries.

THE BOARD, in officially adopting the 1962 budget, noted that "too many necessary expenditures have been neglected much too long within the system."

Exact figures on the new budget form are not yet available, since alterations in several original sums must be added to the totals by Cress. He said, however, the $900,000 amount is "a pretty accurate estimate for 1962."

A resolution requesting that a 4.0 - mills operating levy for the city's schools be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 7 general election also received unanimous support from the board members.

It was emphasized that 3.4

mills of the levy would be in the form of a renewal. The other .6 mill, while technically a new measure, is actually an appeal for funds lost by the city's schools during a real estate reappraisal several years ago.

"The 4.0 mills we have decided to ask the voters to approve represents the bare minimum needed to maintain our present standard of education," board president Carl Leist stated.

Other school board members supported Leist, adding that the levy would only "restore what the city's school had to function with originally."

Police, Firemen Pay Raise Stalled

A motion calling for the introduction of two ordinances pertaining to pay raises for Circleville Fire and Police Department personnel failed last night in City Council.

The motion by Councilman David Crawford died for lack of a second. The motion probably will be presented again at the next Council meeting.

An average raise of about 10 per cent has been asked by city policemen. A straight 10 per cent hike has been requested by all members of the fire department.

QUEEN CAROL AND KING DAVID — Carol Torchick and David McDonald had all the proper ingredients to be named King and Queen of the Pickaway County Fair last night. The attractive couple was selected from a field of 10 boys and 10 girls. Their majestic reign will continue for the remainder of the Fair. Both are active 4-H members. (Photo by Beaver Studio)

Budget Boost, Levy Request Authorized by School Board

A budget calling for an increase of approximately $60,000 to operate Circleville's school system in 1962 was approved after extended study last night by the City Board of Education. Also receiving official sanction was a move to place a 4.0 mill operating levy before city voters in the November election.

Meeting in Superintendent of Schools George Hartman's office, the board members examined most of the individual items on the budget prepared by board clerk Virgil Cress before voting unanimously to up the 1962 figures to about $900,000.

This total contrasts with the estimated $840,000 required to operate the city's schools through this year. No bond retirement or cafeteria operation expenses are included in either sum.

The increase is due predominantly to the scheduled opening of additional classroom space in new schools plus normal rises in the cost of utilities, maintenance services and teacher's salaries.

THE BOARD, in officially adopting the 1962 budget, noted that "too many necessary expenditures have been neglected much too long within the system."

Exact figures on the new budget form are not yet available, since alterations in several original sums must be added to the totals by Cress. He said, however, the $900,000 amount is "a pretty accurate estimate for 1962."

A resolution requesting that a 4.0 - mills operating levy for the city's schools be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 7 general election also received unanimous support from the board members.

It was emphasized that 3.4

mills of the levy would be in the form of a renewal. The other .6 mill, while technically a new measure, is actually an appeal for funds lost by the city's schools during a real estate reappraisal several years ago.

"The 4.0 mills we have decided to ask the voters to approve represents the bare minimum needed to maintain our present standard of education," board president Carl Leist stated.

Other school board members supported Leist, adding that the levy would only "restore what the city's school had to function with originally."

Rain Slows Show Activity

Judging, Races, Thrill Event Scheduled Today

Rain go away and stay away! This was the fervent plea of faithful Pickaway County fairgoers today.

Spirits were dampened again yesterday as rain cut loose about 3:30 p. m. and lasted most of the evening. As expected, the crowd was small and mud puddles flourished.

Yesterday's downpour followed on the heels of Monday evening's showers which cramped an otherwise enthusiastic opening. Today's outlook is little better, with more of the same distasteful showers on the weather forecast.

Although rain cast its gloomy spell yesterday, it did not stop a busy day of judging of various exhibits — nor did it halt three harness races which came to a successful conclusion shortly before the real downpours hit.

LAST night's atmosphere was damp, but the popular King and Queen and Talent contests were conducted as scheduled. The bright and eager faces of new King David McDonald and new Queen Carol Torchick were wondrous aids in brightening a damp picture.

If rain holds off long enough, three more harness races are on tap today, with post time set for 2 p. m. Also on the bill is the tractor pull, a pet parade, 4-H demonstrations and numerous judging events.

Again if weather permits, the Hurricane Hell Drivers thrill show will be a special highlight at 8 p. m. in front of the Grandstand. Washed out horse shoe pitching qualifications also are slated.

Thursday's show will spotlight full scale judging, a continuation of the tractor pull, the final day of harness racing and championship auto races at the Grandstand area.

Cubans Experience Bitter Strain in Fleeing Their Homeland

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP news analyst William L. Ryan is just back from a short visit in Cuba and here reports on the problems of Cubans who seek to leave their homeland and find a new life in the United States.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst "Visit Cuba, and of happy people," says the lettering on cardboard boxes of rum offered for sale to travelers.

You smile bitterly. You are a traveler, a refugee from your own country. You are one of yet another 20,000 the United States has promised to absorb. Before the day is out you hope to escape, to join the many tens of thousands who already have left.

Your goal is close — so very close. But this will be the most anxious, the most tense day of all. You have with you all the worldly possessions you can carry on an airplane to Florida. All the rest is left behind.

For months you have undergone the mental strain of waiting — lines for visas, line for exit permits, lines for plane tickets, lines for everything — Lines inching ahead through the agonizing labyrinth of Fidel Castro's revolutionary bureaucracy. Now, at last you are at the airport. It will be the last day, if you are lucky. The last hours are the hardest of all.

You finally get to check your baggage. It is sent out to customs. There is nothing to do now but wait and wait. It gets hotter by the minute as the afternoon wears on and the passengers mill about the small waiting room. Once you are there you dare not leave. A window has been broken, and the room's air conditioning does no good.

You wait and wait and wait. Children are wailing, irritated by the heat and the long, exhausting vigil. It is 4 p.m. Anxious eyes scan the skies through the waiting room windows. The American plane hasn't appeared.

It wouldn't have mattered if it did show up on time. The customs people were a long way from finished. Then here were the interrogations by the G-2, Castro's intelligence people.

For many there would be intensive and often seemingly pointless questioning. There would be suspicion; the dread of being turned back, just at about the last moment. Some a relatively few — know the bitterness already. The intelligence men are in and out of the waiting room and all eyes follow them. One G-2 man makes a cruel joke. He taps two young girls on the shoulders and asks for their papers. They go pale. Then he laughs at his own joke and hands the papers back. But others are taken away. Few will know the bitterness of losing at the last minute.

The plane finally appears. There is excitement. Little girls hastily put on their hats; mothers make a last minute fuss over wailing infants.

The customs and G-2 people finally have finished. The plane is called. Passengers' names are called out for boarding, one at a time, 110 of them.

Finally you hear your name. Hastily you gather in your bit of hand luggage and head for the ramp. You get in your seat in the crowded tourist plane, and you wait again. It is hot. The plane has been in the blazing sun for hours.

Now all eyes are turned toward the crowds of Cubans lining the railings on the terminal roof, waving goodbye. There are no smiles. Only the tears of men, women and children. Many of those left behind weep. Now the plane is aloft, and the tension lifts. You can feel it.

Finally, the plane touches down in Miami. You join the others in a spontaneous outburst of applause. The steward, smiling, says "Welcome to the United States," and you and the others applaud wildly again. You go down the steps.

Next to you is a weary looking man, in tears. He releases his grip on the hands of a child and kneels on the concrete, crosses himself, and says a prayer.

Another holds a box of the rum they sell travelers. On the box it says: "Visit Cuba, land of happy people."

And you remember the tears on the faces of those you left behind.

Mrs. Harriet Riser, a Capital University graduate now teaching in Columbus City Schools, was employed as an elementary instructor as was Mrs. Roy Dunkle of Route 1, Circleville.

The board approved without dissent the granting of two diplomas from Circleville High School to former students who have completed makeup requirements for graduation.

A move to adopt formally several matters of board policy was tabled until the next meeting.

CONTRACTUAL change orders were approved to substitute asphalt tile for a vinyl material throughout new school buildings now under construction in the city. The board also agreed to order elimination of painting for "non-essential" building areas as an economy measure in the new structures.

After hearing a description of congestion during the lunch hour in the high school building, the board granted Hartman's request to install another steel serving counter in the cafeteria area.

The only other action taken by the board was to approve the payment of routine monthly bills.

Starkey Terms Special Parley 'Best Training'

Ralph Starkey, chief probation officer of the Pickaway County Juvenile Court has just completed two weeks of instruction at the second annual Institute on Probation and Parole Supervision at the University of Louisville.

Special emphasis on the correctional process and behavioral understanding in a probation program was stressed by Milton Rector, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency and Arch Saylor, chief probation officer for the U. S. Court, southern district of New York.

The two specialists were backed by some of the top faculty members and consultants in the field of criminology and corrective work.

Starkey said the "exchange of ideas in such a conference is an invaluable part of any parole official's professional work."

HE ADDED the theme of this year's conference, "Theory of Correction in the United States" particularly impressed him. Concern was expressed by many of the attending officers about inadequate community facilities now existing.

The Institute, under the direction of Charles L. Neuman, director of correctional training at the Raymond A. Kent School of Social Work, is recognized as one of the most valuable forums of its kind in the nation today.

Starkey noted "We in probation work must serve the youth of our areas in the best possible way. Training such as this is a rewarding part of our preparation."

During the Ice Age bald cypress trees were common from what is now Alabama to New Jersey.

hot. All the exhibitors were complaining of displaying their flowers in a bake oven.

Mrs. Bertha Porter of Williamsport had an early morning visitor Tuesday. It was Mrs. Ted Corcoran who was there to see that Mrs. Porter made and entered some arrangements for the Fair.

Mrs. Bertha Porter, however, has always entered specimens.

Tuesday morning at the flower show Vangie Campbell had everybody gasping. She used a piece of old fashioned coverlid (hand woven) as the background for her niche. She decided it was too big and took the shears to cut it down to right size. That's when the gasp was heard.

Valerie Hamilton, member of the Service Over Self Club, Circleville High School, said the Cancer booth was about the loneliest place on the Fairgrounds Tuesday afternoon. This booth has valuable literature on cancer diagnosis and cure.

We were talking to three young fair exhibitors, Louis Jordan, Gary Courtright and Mark Speakman. We asked if anything amusing had happened in the cattle barn. And from what these young men had to say we gather that there is plenty of "horseplay" in the cattle barn.

Filling balloons with water and tossing them at acquaintances (not adults) is a favored sport in the cattle barn. Mark Speakman said Kenny Arnold punctured his waterfilled balloon with a pin before he managed to throw it. Mark really got wet.

These boys said the funniest thing that happened was about 6 a. m. Tuesday when cattle and almost all of the exhibitors were snoozing blissfully away. A pig wandered into the barn and headed towards Gary Hardman's cot. The boys yelled to Gary that a pig was coming his way. Gary woke up in time to see that a pig really was headed toward him.

Francis Fraunfelter was clipping some cattle for a final grooming and he asked Nelson Moore if he wanted a haircut. Nelson said yes and he got one. . . with the cow clippers.

Gary Courtright pointed out to us that the Ohio Department of Highways had Ohio spelled backwards over the department tent. It was spelled "OihO".

Louis Gordon says the girls at the fair are pretty fresh. He quoted his pal, Steve Burger, as saying the girls at the fair were good looking but they knew it. That was the problem.

Judy Young's pig ran away. He was finally found on the other side of the race track.

The excitement of the 4-H Swine Judging yesterday afternoon was interrupted and even ended for at least two 4-H youths. Two swine entries died during the torrid afternoon. One report indicated that lightning carried through electrical wiring that the hogs were leaning against electrocuted them. Another report gave the version that the hogs became too hot and died. Whatever the cause, the efforts of raising and caring for the animals by the 4-H youths were not rewarded.

Mrs. Harriet Riser, a Capital University graduate now teaching in Columbus City Schools, was employed as an elementary instructor as was Mrs. Roy Dunkle of Route 1, Circleville.

The board approved without dissent the granting of two diplomas from Circleville High School to former students who have completed makeup requirements for graduation.

A move to adopt formally several matters of board policy was tabled until the next meeting.

CONTRACTURAL change orders were approved to substitute asphalt tile for a vinyl material throughout new school buildings now under construction in the city. The board also agreed to order elimination of painting for "non-essential" building areas as an economy measure in the new structures.

After hearing a description of congestion during the lunch hour in the high school building, the board granted Hartman's request to install another steel serving counter in the cafeteria area.

The only other action taken by the board was to approve the payment of routine monthly bills.

Starkey Terms Special Parley 'Best Training'

Ralph Starkey, chief probation officer of the Pickaway County Juvenile Court has just completed two weeks of instruction at the second annual Institute on Probation and Parole Supervision at the University of Louisville.

Special emphasis on the correctional process and behavioral understanding in a probation program was stressed by Milton Rector, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency and Arch Saylor, chief probation officer for the U. S. Court, southern district of New York.

The two specialists were backed by some of the top faculty members and consultants in the field of criminology and corrective work.

Starkey said the "exchange of ideas in such a conference is an invaluable part of any parole official's professional work."

HE ADDED the theme of this year's conference, "Theory of Correction in the United States" particularly impressed him. Concern was expressed by many of the attending officers about inadequate community facilities now existing. The Institute, under the direction of Charles L. Neuman, director of correctional training at the Raymond A. Kent School of Social Work, is recognized as one of the most valuable forums of its kinds in the nation today.

Starkey noted "We in probation work must serve the youth of our areas in the best possible way. Training such as this is a rewarding part of our preparation."

During the Ice Age bald cypress trees were common from what is now Alabama to New Jersey.

50 Records Are Taken

Circleville Police investigated an unusual burglary early today at the Duds 'N Suds self-service laundry, E. Franklin St.

Officers were called to the scene at 1:45 a. m. when it was reported that a juke box had been broken into and 50 phonograph records were taken.

Richard Smith, 229 E. Mill St., operator of the firm, said everything was in order when he left the laundry at 11 p. m.

Smith said the records were valued at about $50.

THE complaint was reported by Mrs. Neal Childress, Route 4.

Sgt. Rod List and Patrolmen Jay Curry and Charles Tomlinson investigated.

The Fringe of Truth

That University of Chicago professor who says the United States is a pedocracy is at least on the fringes of truth. The word, which means rule by children, fits the situation of many parents who do not lead but are led by their offspring.

Controlling parents' selection of friends is only one of many tactics children use to maintain their absolute dictatorship over mothers and fathers. Home life for parents is a constant round of buying, building, repairing, getting out and putting away toys, books, games, swimming pools, tricycles and all the other apparatus no self-respecting child would be without.

Social life is dictated by the amount parents can afford for babysitters. With a plethora of children's books on the market and unlimited imaginations for creating fun and games that involve adults, youngsters have no problem whatsoever programming whatever time their parents have left.

The professor who says the United States is a pedocracy would replace the "meek, slightly stupid and foolish comic strip father figure" with a strong, resolute disciplinarian and pour mothers into the mold of the pioneer wife who shared her husband's attitude about parents calling the tune.

While the prevalence of some pedocracy is undeniable, hasn't the Chicago professor overemphasized its threat? Discipline, or lack of it, is only one of many parental influences that shape a child's character. Knowledge that too much indulgence of a child's demands can be detrimental is only part of the wisdom required to be a successful parent.

Mothers Alone Can't Retire

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire after 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire before you are 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says it isn't worthwhile to retire at all. It is better to go on as before.

Well, this just may or may not happen to be true.

So far as I know, there is no medical evidence that proves any human being who keeps his enthusiasm for living and new or old enjoyments dies younger by quitting a steady job at 55 rather than 65.

What is true is that in most circumstances no doctor can assay your endurance.

Unless you have a known terminal disease an honest physician would have to admit, as any honest physician did 3,000 years ago, that your longevity would have to be as much a mystery to you as his is to him.

It has been my observation that people who have performed an endeavor ably for a long period of time, if they weary of it, survive longer if they relinquish it rather than if they try to continue their clutch of it.

They must find a different reach. There comes a time when they must let go of what they have held, and grasp another thing.

Change is a tremendous medicine at any age.

There are those who say that age cannot stand a change of medicine or survive a new viewpoint.

My observation has been that the elderly can well sustain any change except a change of weight.

Those who retire early do not perish from nonperformance. Their appetite endures, they refresh themselves by new attempts.

Science has its purposes, but it also has its frustrations.

I recall the sad face of a pioneer doctor in the field of gerontology—the study of old age. He worried himself to death in his 60s. I must suppose, in an attempt to figure how people could live longer.

My mother, who got only through the third grade in Ireland before she came over here and bore five children, never had time to study gerontology. She'll be 74 this year.

"Sometimes I feel like I ought to let go, and give this old world a rest," she says placidly. She is 60-70 pounds above her arrival weight, and America has been for her just one child and a calorie after another.

All her five children—the silver cord remains untarnished and unbroken—deny her this choice. They all feel the need of her unity, now as when young.

"But sometimes I get so tired," mother says. "I'd like to retire. I'd just like to quit."

Talk, woman talk. There are plenty of statistics to show—I hope—that men who retire younger live longer than those who don't. It's good for them.

But not for mothers. Mothers can't retire. They can't quit, can they? A mother's best pension is the reward of the need of her eternal presentment.

No More Pearl Harbors

By George Sokolsky

What the President's speech last week and the subsequent comment by members of Congress and the increase in the number of troops now called up means is that we are on the verge of war. We are not waiting to be attacked. We are not holding out for a Pearl Harbor.

President Kennedy has spoken his piece. The country has received his appeal for support enthusiastically. For no matter how one looks at the President's speech, it is a call to arms. It is a rejection of the Soviet ultimatum concerning Berlin. The only criticism of the President is a Republican suggestion that he cut peace-time waste and certainly the present situation gives him an excellent opportunity to get rid of some very expensive garbage which has accumulated over the years. He might implement the Hoover Reports which his father helped to prepare, and save about $4,000,000 a year, if not more.

One of the greatest advantages that Soviet Russia has over us is our wasteful profligacy, particularly in the military services. Military men throw away money, which is probably due to their training. If we recognize that the accumulated fat in our economy is gone, prudence will advise a sharp cut in Federal non-defense expenditures. Otherwise, we shall be forced to print so much money that the purchasing power of the dollar will be further reduced.

In a free society, it is impossible to deprive the people of their earnings and savings by inordinate spending while the people are asked to practice thrift. The let-them-eat-cake theory of government finances does not work well in a country where elections are held at stated periods.

Khrushchev is wrong if he truly believes that President Kennedy delivered his speech last week to cover up unfavorable economic conditions. This is just not so. As a matter of fact, the President has been very tolerant of Soviet insults, more tolerant than the American people believed to be wise.

Kennedy avoided permitting the Cuban affair from developing into a major political issue with perhaps some shooting to establish our ability to take care of ourselves. This has brought upon the President considerable criticism. Khrushchev makes a mistake if he believes that because President Kennedy took a weak stand vis-a-vis Cuba, he is a weak man. The stand toward Cuba, whether correct or not, was calculated. The President did not choose to make his stand against Khrushchev in Cuba. He preferred to select his own spot and his own time. He chose Berlin.

And now, Khrushchev must either withdraw from an adamant position or there will be some kind of war in October. President Kennedy has made it clear that the United States will not withdraw from Berlin or change the status of the Western world in what amounts to East Germany.

Khrushchev must act. He cannot disregard the Kennedy speech or the American policy regarding Berlin without admitting his inability to meet force if necessary. On the other hand a war with the United States is not a matter of propaganda any longer. It means that no matter what happens much of the new strength that Soviet Russia has developed since 1933 will be smashed to rubble. Despite all the criticism of the U-2 program, Soviet Russia has been photographed as though it were selling picture post-cards of its most secret spots. If we need to we shall up the place, as they will shoot us up.

From Khrushchev's standpoint, this is a very bad situation. His program of peaceful co-existence, for which he has fought so hard within the Soviet Universal State, is now wiped out. It was a program for the assertion of Soviet pre-eminence to which the West would agree in return for trade and for an avoidance of incident. In effect, President Kennedy said that we do not want to avoid incidents; that we shall take any risk, mete any situation, make any sacrifice but we shall not retreat. Neither Stalin nor Khrushchev has heard such words from an American President and the Ukrainian probably does not know how to take it, whether to believe Kennedy or to assume that he is faking.

It would be sound to believe President Kennedy at this time, because the American people have had enough of Khrushchev and of Soviet tactics. The President's attitude is popular. It is the attitude of the American people.

You're Telling Me!

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer

Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, has designed a reversible mink coat — white mink on one side and black mink on the other. Sounds expensive enough to put anyone's bank balance in the red.

Pierre Balmain unveils a new "Tube Look." A perfect 36?—that is, 36-36-36?

To Aitch Kay the Tube Look sounds like an ideal style for the woman who is "just made to be squeezed!"

Balmain insists the Tube Look is for the "truly elegant" who have a "total lack of desire to impress." A "total lack of desire to impress," no doubt, goes along with a total lack of desire to economize.

Women who totally lack a desire to impress fall into two social groups—the "truly elegant" and the complete fishwife.

Another Balmain creation is a suit called "Siberia." Probably a going-away kind of costume.

Fashioneer Pierre is also featuring such new colors as "October Beige" and "November Gray." Highly interesting, no doubt, suggests the man at the next desk, to those who have plenty of bank note green.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—One Des Moines church choir has an original composition it sings at the yearly picnic, or at other off-schedule occasions.

The name of the tune is "Church Choir Boogie."

LAFF-A-DAY

"I understand you've taken on a part-time job at night, Perkins... Perkins?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GEORGE BURNS recalls a pair of acrobats who got a chance to play a top vaudeville house after years in dinky one-ring circuses. "If you make good in this house," their agent promised, "I'll get you a 50-week contract playing the whole circuit. But keep your eyes on an owl the manager keeps on the balcony railing. The manager takes great stock in that owl. If he keeps his eyes open during the act, you're in like Churchill. But if he blinks—good night, Charlie!"

The opening night arrived and the acrobats advanced to the footlights, their wives watching nervously from the wings. Suddenly one acrobat whispered to the other, "Do you see what I see, Joe? That ventriloquist has your wife in his arms and is kissing her madly."

"Never mind my wife," hissed the other. "Keep your eyes on that owl!"

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.
Dear Doctor: Are lemon juice and powdered vegetables included in a salt-poor diet?

Do you have to cook powdered vegetables?

Dear Mr. H.: Lemon juice is included in the strictest salt-free diet. Two helpings of fresh vegetables—whole or powdered—are permitted, providing no salt is added. Vegetables like potato, carrot and turnip contain more salt than green, leafy spinach, lettuce, etc.

Without water, powdered vegetables won't have much taste. Will they with water?

Dear Doctor: If they change the blood of an Rh baby, why can't they do the same thing for leukemia victims?

Dear Mrs. F.: You can sweep up grass tramped around the house and count on it staying clean. But you can't mow your lawn and expect that no grass will grow back.

The Rh baby's blood contains antibodies and jaundice — coloring caused by antibodies which he received through his direct pipeline to Mom.

Like your lawn, leukemia victims keep manufacturing leukemia cells no matter how often you change their blood.

Dear Doctor: I've lost the lens from one eye. Separately, each eye can see well. Why won't they work together?

Dear Mrs. G.: The eye's lens reduces the size of everything you see. Even with regular glasses, each of your eyes sees a different-sized picture.

A contact lens — if you can wear it in your bad eye — can solve the size problem and with regular glasses to correct for focusing, you'll be all set for stereo vision.

Dear Doctor: What makes my big toe nails thick and rough?

One doctor blames cigarettes, another vitamin deficiency. Who's right?

Dear Mrs. H.: Neither — unless you continually stub your toes against cigarette cartons or empty vitamin jars.

Tight shoes and other injuries start the toe nails manufacturing horn-like material for protection. When injuries stop, your toe nails may straighten out!

Dear Doctor: What causes phlebitis? Is there any cure?

Dear Mrs. F.: Infection often triggers phlebitis — inflammation of a vein. A blood clot usually forms and blocks the vein. Antibiotic germ-killers and medicines to prevent and dissolve blood clots all help.

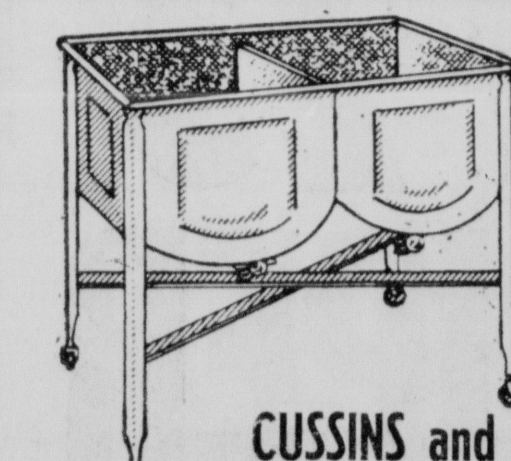

Sometimes the arm or leg continues to swell after you're better, but this harmless pale milk leg shouldn't make you blue!

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Both consumers and business are playing the Berlin crisis cool.

The stock market, with its eyes traditionally focused six months ahead, has placed its bets on an expected big rise in business activity. Traders figure the buildup in U.S. defense spending caused by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threats will give the economy an extra nudge along an uphill path it's already taking.

But businessmen themselves haven't rushed to place new orders. They are still playing it safe on inventories, although the cut-back in stocks which marked the recession has ended and been replaced by a very moderate upturn.

The possibility of price rises later from higher labor costs hasn't affected business ordering plans apparently.

Nor are consumers rushing to buy. Most are sophisticated enough to know that goods are plentiful and, what's more, that the capacity to make more goods is far from filled.

For many the Berlin crisis is just another in a seemingly endless string of crises that the Reds stir up. Much more close at hand is what the new military buildup here might do to plans of individuals and companies if reservists are called up and more youths drafted.

While businessmen are not rushing to place new orders, they are keeping an eye on several developing domestic conditions.

One is the outcome of the wage negotiations in the auto industry. This will affect not only that major industry, but also to some extent the business of the many industries that supply it—and also the individuals and firms that buy autos and trucks.

Another is the current uncertainty in the steel industry. Output is lagging, as it usually does at this time of year because of summer vacations and the change-over lull in the auto industry.

Most observers hold, however, that the present disinclination of consumer and businessman to be swayed by the Berlin crisis or by threats of price and wage increases here doesn't dim the prospects for a general, if orderly, rise in the economy the rest of the year.

The arms buildup with its attendant Treasury deficit will be pouring several more billion dollars into the economic stream. This promises more orders for many industries, both those in defense work and those who furnish the needed materials, as the stock market already has noted. It also means more dollars in circulation as payrolls rise.

Some fear all of this will mean another surge of inflation. But the calmer view is that inflation won't amount to much until present excess capacity for production is absorbed.

The Fringe of Truth

That University of Chicago professor who says the United States is a pedocracy is at least on the fringes of truth. The word, which means rule by children, fits the situation of many parents who do not lead but are led by their offspring.

Controlling parents' selection of friends is only one of many tactics children use to maintain their absolute dictatorship over mothers and fathers. Home life for parents is a constant round of buying, building, repairing, getting out and putting away toys, books, games, swimming pools, tricycles and all the other apparatus no self-respecting child would be without.

Social life is dictated by the amount parents can afford for babysitters. With a plethora of children's books on the market and unlimited imaginations for creating fun and games that involve adults, youngsters have no problem whatsoever programming whatever time their parents have left.

The professor who says the United States is a pedocracy would replace the "meek, slightly stupid and foolish comic strip father figure" with a strong, resolute disciplinarian and pour mothers into the mold of the pioneer wife who shared her husband's attitude about parents calling the tune.

While the prevalence of some pedocracy is undeniable, hasn't the Chicago professor overemphasized its threat? Discipline, or lack of it, is only one of many parental influences that shape a child's character. Knowledge that too much indulgence of a child's demands can be detrimental is only part of the wisdom required to be a successful parent.

Mothers Alone Can't Retire

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire after 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire before you are 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says it isn't worthwhile to retire at all. It is better to go on as before.

Well, this just may or may not happen to be true.

So far as I know, there is no medical evidence that proves any human being who keeps his enthusiasm for living and new or old enjoyments dies younger by quitting a steady job at 55 rather than 65.

What is true is that in most circumstances no doctor can assay your endurance.

Unless you have a known terminal disease an honest physician would have to admit, as any honest physician did 3,000 years ago, that your longevity would have to be as much a mystery to you as his is to him.

It has been my observation that people who have performed an endeavor ably for a long period of time, if they weary of it, survive longer if they relinquish it rather than if they try to continue their clutch of it.

They must find a different reach. There comes a time when they must let go of what they have held, and grasp another thing.

Change is a tremendous medicine at any age.

There are those who say that age cannot stand a change of medicine or survive a new viewpoint.

My observation has been that the elderly can well sustain any change except a change of weight.

Those who retire early do not perish from nonperformance. Their appetite endures, they refresh themselves by new attempts.

Science has its purposes, but it also has its frustrations.

I recall the sad face of a pioneer doctor in the field of gerontology—the study of old age. He worried himself to death in his 60s, I must suppose, in an attempt to figure how people could live longer.

My mother, who got only through the third grade in Ireland before she came over here and bore five children, never had time to study gerontology. She'll be 74 this year.

"Sometimes I feel like I ought to let go, and give this old world a rest," she says placidly. She is 60-70 pounds above her arrival weight, and America has been for her just one child and a calorie after another.

All her five children—the silver cord remains untarnished and unbroken—deny her this choice. They all feel the need of her unity, now as when young.

"But sometimes I get so tired," mother says. "I'd like to retire. I'd just like to quit."

Talk, woman talk. There are plenty of statistics to show—I hope—that men who retire younger live longer than those who don't. It's good for them.

But not for mothers. Mothers can't retire. They can't quit, can they? A mother's best pension is the reward of the need of her eternal presentment.

No More Pearl Harbors

By George Sokolsky

What the President's speech last week and the subsequent comment by members of Congress and the increase in the number of troops now called up means is that we are on the verge of war. We are not waiting to be attacked. We are not holding out for a Pearl Harbor.

President Kennedy has spoken his piece. The country has received his appeal for support enthusiastically. For no matter how one looks at the President's speech, it is a call to arms. It is a rejection of the Soviet ultimatum concerning Berlin. The only criticism of the President is a Republican suggestion that he cut peace-time waste and certainly the present situation gives him an excellent opportunity to get rid of some very expensive garbage which has accumulated over the years. He might implement the Hoover Reports which his father helped to prepare, and save about $4,000,000,000 a year, if not more.

One of the greatest advantages that Soviet Russia has over us is our wasteful profligacy, particularly in the military services. Military men throw away money, which is probably due to their training. If we recognize that the accumulated fat in our economy is gone, prudence will advise a sharp cut in Federal non-defense expenditures. Otherwise, we shall be forced to print so much money that the purchasing power of the dollar will be further reduced.

In a free society, it is impossible to deprive the people of their earnings and savings by inordinate spending while the people are asked to practice thrift. The let-them-eat-cake theory of government finances does not work well in a country where elections are held at stated periods.

Khrushchev is wrong if he truly believes that President Kennedy delivered his speech last week to cover up unfavorable economic conditions. This is just not so. As a matter of fact, the President has been very tolerant of Soviet insults, more tolerant than the American people believed to be wise. Kennedy avoided permitting the Cuban affair from developing into a major political issue with perhaps some shooting to establish our ability to take care of ourselves. This has brought upon the President considerable criticism.

Khrushchev makes a mistake if he believes that because President Kennedy took a weak stand vis-a-vis Cuba, he is a weak man. The stand toward Cuba, whether correct or not, was calculated. The President did not choose to make his stand against Khrushchev in Cuba. He preferred to select his own spot and his own time. He chose Berlin.

And now, Khrushchev must either withdraw from an adamant position or there will be some kind of war in October. President Kennedy has made it clear that the United States will not withdraw from Berlin or change the status of the Western world in what amounts to East Germany.

Khrushchev must act. He cannot disregard the Kennedy speech or the American policy regarding Berlin without admitting his inability to meet force if necessary. On the other hand a war with the United States is not a matter of propaganda any longer. It means that no matter what happens much of the new strength that Soviet Russia has developed since 1933 will be smashed to rubble. Despite all the criticism of the U-2 program, Soviet Russia has been photographed as though it were selling picture post-cards of its most secret spots. If we need to we shall up the place, as they will shoot us up.

From Khrushchev's standpoint, this is a very bad situation. His program of peaceful co-existence, for which he has fought so hard within the Soviet Union, is now wiped out. It was a program for the assertion of Soviet pre-eminence to which the West would agree in return for trade and for an avoidance of incident. In effect, President Kennedy said that we do not want to avoid incidents; that we shall take any risk, mete any situation, make any sacrifice but we shall not retreat. Neither Stalin nor Khrushchev has heard such words from an American President and the Ukrainian probably does not know how to take it, whether to believe Kennedy or to assume that he is faking.

It would be sound to believe President Kennedy at this time, because the American people have had enough of Khrushchev and of Soviet tactics. The President's attitude is popular. It is the attitude of the American people.

Pierre Balmain unveils a new "Tube Look." A perfect 36-36-36? That is, 36-36-36?

To Aitch Kay the Tube Look sounds like an ideal style for the woman who is "just made to be squeezed!"

Balmain insists the Tube Look is for the "truly elegant" who have a "total lack of desire to impress." A "total lack of desire to impress," no doubt, goes along with a total lack of desire to economize.

Women who totally lack a desire to impress fall into two social groups—the "truly elegant" and the complete fishwife.

Another Balmain creation is a suit called "Siberia." Probably a going-away kind of costume.

Fashioneer Pierre is also featuring such new colors as "October Beige" and "November Gray." Highly interesting, no doubt, suggests the man at the next desk, to those who have plenty of bank note green.

10,000 Flee As Ammonia Poisons Air

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—At least 10,000 persons left their homes in nearby towns for several hours Tuesday when a coupling broke and poison fumes filled the air as ammonia was being transferred from a barge to a dockside tank along the Illinois River.

State police said at least 19 persons were hospitalized before the all-clear was given after more than four hours. Residents then were allowed back in their homes.

Six persons were released after treatment, and none of the hospitalized was in serious condition.

The entire population of nearby Bartonville—more than 7,200 persons—and most of Creve Coeur's 6,000-plus residents left the area after officials urged an evacuation until the air cleared.

As the winds shifted, the fumes drifted into North Pekin and East Peoria.

Creve Coeur police said the coupling had been repaired and no more ammonia fumes were escaping. The fumes could be deadly if inhaled in great quantities.

Hundreds of evacuees crowded the Bradley University field house in this north central Illinois city of about 102,000. Others went into several high school gymnasiums and the nearby mess hall of the Hannah City radar base, to wait for the air to clear.

GEORGE BURNS recalls a pair of acrobats who got a chance to play a top vaudeville house after years in dinky one-ring circuses. "If you make good in this house," their agent promised,

"I'll get you a 50-week contract playing the whole circuit. But keep your eyes on an owl the manager keeps on the balcony railing. The manager takes great stock in that owl. If he keeps his eyes open during the act, you're in like Churchill. But if it blinks—good night, Charlie!"

The opening night arrived and the acrobats advanced to the footlights, their wives watching nervously from the wings. Suddenly one acrobat whispered to the other, "Do you see what I see, Joe? That ventriloquist has your wife in his arms and is kissing her madly."

Conservation Corps Plan Is Given Nod

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee yesterday approved far-reaching bills to set up a 150,000-member Youth Conservation Corps and establish a GI education program for veterans serving since 1955.

The youth corps bill sent to the Senate floor far exceeds the recommendations of President Kennedy. His administration actively opposed the other measure, dubbed the "cold war veterans GI bill."

Both proposals were cleared by voice votes with strong support from Democrats on the committee. Republicans indicated solid opposition to the youth corps measure. Some GOP committee members also opposed the veterans bill.

The youth corps bill, sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would create a corps 25 times the 6,000-member pilot project proposed by Kennedy.

Enrollees would work on projects sponsored by government conservation, park, forest and wildlife agencies similar to the tasks of the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

The veterans bill, sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., would give veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955, college education and other benefits similar to those received by World War I and Korean War servicemen.

The Veterans Administration, in opposing the legislation, said the education costs alone could exceed $2 billion.

16 Georgia Election Aides Are Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department Tuesday announced the indictment of two election officials and 14 poll workers in Telfair County, Ga., on charges of casting and counting fraudulent ballots in last November's presidential election.

The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in Savannah, Ga.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the grand jury Monday also issued a resolution saying that the county's Board of Registrars and the deputy registrar failed to register voters properly or purge voter lists of ineligible names.

The first count, charging conspiracy against the rights of citizens, named 16 defendants. They included Judge Eli Wilcox, of the Court of Ordinary (a probate court), who was responsible for general supervision of the election; and Lewis B. Seay, clerk of the Telfair County Superior Court.

Fourteen pollholders, or poll workers, also were charged in that count, as well as a second count charging deprivation of rights.

Kennedy said the indictment charged that all the defendants conspired to cast and count and permit others "to cast and count forged, fraudulent and fictitious votes for presidential and vice presidential electors."

The second count charged the 14 pollholders with executing the conspiracy, by casting and counting the fictitious votes.

Conservation Corps Plan Is Given Nod

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee yesterday approved far-reaching bills to set up a 150,000-member Youth Conservation Corps and establish a GI education program for veterans serving since 1955.

The youth corps bill sent to the Senate floor far exceeds the recommendations of President Kennedy. His administration actively opposed the other measure, dubbed the "cold war veterans GI bill."

Both proposals were cleared by voice votes with strong support from Democrats on the committee. Republicans indicated solid opposition to the youth corps measure. Some GOP committee members also opposed the veterans bill.

The youth corps bill, sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would create a corps 25 times the 6,000-member pilot project proposed by Kennedy.

Enrollees would work on projects sponsored by government conservation, park, forest and wildlife agencies similar to the tasks of the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

The veterans bill, sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., would give veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955, college education and other benefits similar to those received by World War I and Korean War servicemen.

The Veterans Administration, in opposing the legislation, said the education costs alone could exceed $2 billion.

16 Georgia Election Aides Are Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department Tuesday announced the indictment of two election officials and 14 poll workers in Telfair County, Ga., on charges of casting and counting fraudulent ballots in last November's presidential election.

The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in Savannah, Ga.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the grand jury Monday also issued a resolution saying that the county's Board of Registrars and the deputy registrar failed to register voters properly or purge voter lists of ineligible names.

The first count, charging conspiracy against the rights of citizens, named 16 defendants. They included Judge Eli Willecox, of the Court of Ordinary (a probate court), who was responsible for general supervision of the election; and Lewis B. Seay, clerk of the Telfair County Superior Court.

Fourteen pollholders, or poll workers, also were charged in that count, as well as a second count charging deprivation of rights.

Kennedy said the indictment charged that all the defendants conspired to cast and count and permit others "to cast and count forged, fraudulent and fictitious votes for presidential and vice presidential electors."

The second count charged the 14 pollholders with executing the conspiracy, by casting and counting the fictitious votes.

Sidney Area Labeled As Disaster Region

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—Shelby County officials have been informed that the Small Business Administration in Washington has designated the county and adjacent localities as a disaster area. Those whose property was damaged in Friday night's tornadoes may thus apply to the SBA for reconstruction or rehabilitation loans at 3 per cent interest.

Cucumber Is Featured In Variety of Dishes

By ALICE DENHOFF

The cucumber, crisp and succulent, is the perfect hot weather vegetable. Familiar to all of us as a crunchy ingredient in garden salads, the cucumber can star on its own in a variety of delicious dishes.

In cooking cukes, remember to treat 'em gently. They need just enough cooking to wilt them slightly and to warm them through.

Cream Sauce

Try serving cukes in a thin cream sauce, flavored with pepper and a dash of nutmeg — simple enough, but so good!

For non-dieters, try dipping cucumber cubes in crumbs, then in beaten egg, then crumbs again, and frying in deep fat. Served piping hot, this is a novel hors d'oeuvre.

And remember, fish and cucumbers bring out the best in each other!

And now, how about serving cucumbers country style?

To serve 4, cut enough unpeeled cucumbers in crosswise slices to make 3 c.

Dip In Mixture

Dip in beaten egg blended with 1/2 cup milk and then into a mixture of 2 tsp. each flour and fine bread crumbs, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. each ground black pepper and garlic powder.

Brown on both sides in hot fat, using about 1/4 c.

Serve at once as a vegetable.

For a delightful, flavorful salad to serve 6, slice 2 large unpeeled cucumbers; mix with 1 c. dairy sour cream, 2 tbsp. grated onion, 1 tsp. dill seeds, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. lemon juice and 1/4 tsp. white pepper.

Serve on salad greens and garnish with chopped parsley.

A creamy cucumber sauce does wonders to broiled or baked salmon, sword fish, fillet of haddock or halibut.

Cucumber And Salt

To prepare about 1 c. sauce, combine 1 c. finely-chopped, peeled cucumbers and 1/2 tsp. salt. Chill in covered bowl at least 1 hr. Drain and discard water. Add to cucumbers 1 tbsp. each sugar and cider vinegar and 1/2 tsp. white pepper.

Whip 1/2 c. heavy cream and fold into mixture.

Serve over cooked fish. Cucumber soup, served hot or cold, is a delight.

Serves Six

For 6 servings or 5 1/2 c., place in saucepan 4 c. diced, unpeeled cucumbers 2-3 c. chopped leeks (well washed), 1/2 c. finely-diced new potatoes, 1/4 c. chopped parsley, 4 c. chicken broth, 3/4 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. each powdered mustard and crumbled whole savory leaves and 1/4 tsp. white pepper. Cover and cook until tender — 15 to 20 min.

Strain through sieve, being sure to push as much vegetable through as possible.

Serve hot or cold, adding 2-3 c. cream just before serving.

If chicken broth is not used, then replace with 4 chicken bouillon cubes and 4 c. boiling water.

Five Points WSCS Conducts Meeting

Mrs. John O'Day hosted members of the Five Points Methodist WSCS recently.

Fourteen members answered roll call by telling what they plan to do on their vacation. Mrs. Arthur Winfough read the secretary's report and Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Elmore Plotts, program chairman opened the program with scripture reading from John 13:34-35 by Mrs. Richard Redman, followed by prayer and meditations by Mrs. John O'Day. The theme was "The Church and the World Federation of Christian Women", with readings by Mrs. Arthur Winfough, Mrs. Richard Redman, Mrs. Francis Furniss and Mrs. Ned Long.

Mrs. Herman Porter gave a report of missions in foreign fields. The meeting closed with the benediction and lovely refreshments were served by Mrs. O'Day assisted by Miss Freda Clarridge and Mrs. John Osbourne.

The month of August will be vacation month and the September meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Arthur Winfough.

Mold fruit - flavored gelatin in a ring mold; turn out when chilled and set. Fill center with a combination of diced cream (sweetened and flavored with vanilla) for a delicious dessert. Weight - watchers can enjoy without the cream!

Roll out leftover dough from pie and cut out small circles. Fill with a mixture of currant jelly and chopped nuts and fold over and seal in turnover style. Bake in a hot oven.

If your cake has tunnels and occasional large holes, you may have overbeaten the batter.

Constant Care Pays

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

It's time to find a place in the sun but, if your complexion is naturally dry, watch your step. Tanning may leave it parched. The truth of the matter is the dry complexion needs constant care.

Advantages Plus Drawbacks

It does have advantages, of course, for, generally speaking, it's smooth and unblemished. But you're aware of its drawbacks, too. Without cosmetic lubrication, dry skin becomes drawn and flaky, a condition that promotes aging lines and even wrinkles.

Nip such trouble in the bud. Pamper a dry complexion and your mirror won't reflect such problems.

Nightly Care

Do use a moisture cream when you think of it. And think of it every night.

Leave the cream on when you sleep and you'll face the morning with a complexion that boasts a dewy look.

Such creams needn't be unpleasant to use. Choose one with a non-greasy formula that doesn't make the skin feel sticky.

Stick up on other special - purpose cosmetics that come to the aid of the dry complexion, too.

For Eye Area

One cream, rich in oils, is formulated especially to keep skin in the dry, sensitive eye area from producing crinkles and crow's feet. Finger it around the eyes gently. Never rub or pull this very delicate skin.

Eye cream makes an excellent overnight beauty treatment. You can also use it as a foundation for eye shadow, smooth a bit on brows to keep them in line, apply it to tip lashes and give them a lustrous look.

Throat Oil

Throat oil also belongs on your beauty shelf.

A new one promises wonders, for it contains emollients and astringents. This double - purpose formula is designed to smooth away slaky dryness and firm the skin as well.

Dry Skin Freshener

Of course you'll use special cream to cleanse your skin. After you tissue it off, follow up by patting on dry skin freshener.

Why is it needed? Because it removes any remaining traces of cream and also stimulates circulation and freshens skin color.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Whittaker and son, Scotty, and Miss Cynthia McCabe, Columbus, were dinner guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Styers, 623 E. Mound St.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

If at First You Don't Succeed!

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to see a psychiatrist because I have already been to one, and he said I was sane.

I have been married and divorced three times since 1951 — each time to the same man. I wish we had the money we spent on lawyers. Right now we are divorced, and considering marriage again. I feel like a crazy kid. We have no children, so that's not the reason we keep going back together. I can't get interested in anyone else, and he is the same way. If he doesn't call me up before going to bed, I call him, and we talk for hours. I really want to marry him again, but I am afraid of what people will say. Can you help me make up my mind? I am 34 and he is 37.

LUMP IN MY THROAT

DEAR LUMP: Don't marry each other again until you both sit down with a clergyman, or a competent counselor, an try to determine why your past marriages have failed. If you can discuss your past mistakes objectively, and profit from them, your chances for a shatter-proof marriage are excellent. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old, and I don't have a boy friend yet. I have had my eye on a certain boy for a long time, but I am not making any headway with him. He is 12 and I think he likes me but is too bashful to show it. Everybody says I am cute and smart. He wears a ring, and I would like to get it. Can you help me?

CUTE BUT MUTE

DEAR CUTE: What's the rush? There is only trouble ahead for the girl who wants to get a band on her finger before she gets the bands off her teeth. Slow up, Honey. You are much too young for such notions.

DEAR ABBY: My two small children and I live with my parents. My father tells my 6-year-old son that he must shake hands, instead of kissing him, before he goes to bed; that he may kiss women, but "big boys do not kiss men." Mother and I feel that my son should be allowed to kiss his grandfather, who must act as a substitute father in this case. My own father kissed his son (my brother) until he was in his teens, and I don't think there was anything wrong with it. How do you feel about this?

YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG MOTHER: There is no reason why a six-year-old child shouldn't kiss his grandfather.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MAC: A "guilty conscience" doesn't always prevent people from doing things. It just prevents them from enjoying it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wife Preservers

When ironing, always detour around zippers, buttons, hooks and eyes, in order not to scratch the iron's plate.

Many good cooks like to precook frozen lobster tails in salted water for about five minutes before broiling; but simmer, don't boil the lobster tails.

Five Points WSCS Conducts Meeting

Mrs. John O'Day hosted members of the Five Points Methodist WSCS recently.

Fourteen members answered roll call by telling what they plan to do on their vacation. Mrs. Arthur Winfough read the secretary's report and Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the treasurers report.

Mrs. Elmore Plotts, program chairman opened the program with scripture reading from John 13:34-35 by Mrs. Richard Redman, followed by prayer and meditations by Mrs. John O'Day. The theme was "The Church and the World Federation of Christian Women", with readings by Mrs. Arthur Winfough, Mrs. Richard Redman, Mrs. Francis Furniss and Mrs. Ned Long.

Mrs. Herman Porter gave a report of missions in foreign fields. The meeting closed with the benediction and lovely refreshments were served by Mrs. O'Day assisted by Miss Freda Clarridge and Mrs. John Osbourne.

The month of August will be vacation month and the September meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Arthur Winfough.

Mold fruit - flavored gelatin in a ring mold; turn out when chilled and set. Fill center with a combination of diced cream (sweetened and flavored with vanilla) for a delicious dessert. Weight - watchers can enjoy without the cream!

Roll out leftover dough from pie and cut out small circles. Fill with a mixture of currant jelly and chopped nuts and fold over and seal in turnover style. Bake in a hot oven.

Constant Care Pays

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

It's time to find a place in the sun but, if your complexion is naturally dry, watch your step. Tanning may leave it parched. The truth of the matter is the dry complexion needs constant care.

Advantages Plus Drawbacks

It does have advantages, of course, for, generally speaking, it's smooth and unblemished. But you're aware of its drawbacks, too. Without cosmetic lubrication, dry skin becomes drawn and flaky, a condition that promotes aging lines and even wrinkles.

Nip such trouble in the bud. Pamper a dry complexion and your mirror won't reflect such problems.

Nightly Care

Do use a moisture cream when you think of it. And think of it every night.

Leave the cream on when you sleep and you'll face the morning with a complexion that boasts a dewy look.

Such creams needn't be unpleasant to use. Choose one with a non-greasy formula that doesn't make the skin feel sticky.

Stick up on other special - purpose cosmetics that come to the aid of the dry complexion, too.

For Eye Area

One cream, rich in oils, is formulated especially to keep skin in the dry, sensitive eye area from producing wrinkles and crow's feet. Finger it around the eyes gently. Never rub or pull this very delicate skin.

Eye cream makes an excellent overnight beauty treatment. You can also use it as a foundation for eye shadow, smooth a bit on brows to keep them in line, apply it to tip lashes and give them a lustrous look.

Throat Oil

Throat oil also belongs on your beauty shelf.

A new one promises wonders, for it contains emollients and astringents. This double - purpose formula is designed to smooth away slaky dryness and firm the skin as well.

Dry Skin Freshener

Of course you'll use special cream to cleanse your skin. After you tissue it off, follow up by patting on dry skin freshener.

Why is it needed? Because it removes any remaining traces of cream and also stimulates circulation and freshens skin color.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

If at First You Don't Succeed!

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to see a psychiatrist because I have already been to one, and he said I was sane.

I have been married and divorced three times since 1951 — each time to the same man. I wish we had the money we spent on lawyers. Right now we are divorced, and considering marriage again. I feel like a crazy kid. We have no children, so that's not the reason we keep going back together. I can't get interested in anyone else, and he is the same way. If he doesn't call me up before going to bed, I call him, and we talk for hours. I really want to marry him again, but I am afraid of what people will say. Can you help me make up my mind? I am 34 and he is 37.

LUMP IN MY THROAT

DEAR LUMP: Don't marry each other again until you both sit down with a clergyman, or a competent counselor, and try to determine why your past marriages have failed. If you can discuss your past mistakes objectively, and profit from them, your chances for a shatter-proof marriage are excellent. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old, and I don't have a boy friend yet. I have had my eye on a certain boy for a long time, but I am not making any headway with him. He is 12 and I think he likes me but is too bashful to show it. Everybody says I am cute and smart. He wears a ring, and I would like to get it. Can you help me?

CUTE BUT MUTE

DEAR CUTE: What's the rush? There is only trouble ahead for the girl who wants to get a band on her finger before she gets the bands off her teeth. Slow up, Honey. You are much too young for such notions.

DEAR ABBY: My two small children and I live with my parents. My father tells my 6-year-old son that he must shake hands, instead of kissing him, before he goes to bed; that he may kiss women, but "big boys do not kiss men." Mother and I feel that my son should be allowed to kiss his grandfather, who must act as a substitute father in this case. My own father kissed his son (my brother) until he was in his teens, and I don't think there was anything wrong with it. How do you feel about this?

YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG MOTHER: There is no reason why a six-year-old child shouldn't kiss his grandfather.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MAC: A "guilty conscience" doesn't always prevent people from doing things. It just prevents them from enjoying it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—You can expect world turmoil for the rest of your life. Not big war, maybe, but endless conflict, struggle, revolution around the globe.

It's all spelled out calmly in the Russian Communist party's program for the next 20 years, and beyond.

This program, the first laid down in Moscow since 1919, was released Saturday. It fills 64 columns of print in the New York Times.

When Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" — his blueprint for the wild savagery of Nazism later — unfortunately no one took it seriously.

It looked like the work of a neurotic, and it was.

No doubt many men had a hand in the new Russian Communist party program which has the blessing of Premier Khrushchev. No one is calling this neurotic.

It is frankly and confidently Moscow's blueprint for world conquest by communism. This must be taken as seriously as Mein Kampf should have been.

It is divided into two main parts. One is a catalogue of rosy promises of a richer and easier life for the Russian people in the next 20 years.

It was this part of the program

Factory Hiring Shows Climb During June

WASHINGTON (AP) —Factory employment increased during June, but at a slower rate than in May, the Labor Department reported today.

Total hirings, which usually mount sharply in June, were reported at the rate of 40 per 1,000 workers, an increase of 3 per 1,000 over May.

The increase in new hirings about 6 per 1,000 over the month was reported about normal for this period and reflected the customary summer entry of students and graduates into the factory force.

The rate of recalling workers back to jobs dropped, however, especially in the industries which had previously been showing the sharpest recovery—primarily fabricated metals, machinery and electrical machinery.

Hirings were either down or up less than seasonally in a number of nondurable goods industries in which they normally rise, such as textiles, chemicals, petroleum rubber and leather. But they rose more than seasonally in the building materials and home furnishing industries such as lumber, stone, clay and glass.

Layoffs dropped by 2 to 12 per 1,000 over the month while the number of workers quitting their jobs rose by the same amount to 10 per 1,000.

Total hirings and quitings for June were about the same as a year earlier but layoffs were 5 per 1,000 lower.

which got most attention when it was made public over the week-end.

The other, predicting the ultimate triumph of communism without a timetable, is the blueprint for the long, fierce, unending struggle ahead.

Reading the full text in this part of the program makes the idea of "peaceful coexistence," which Khrushchev preaches, look like an exercise in the Communist lexicon of double-speak.

It says quite blandly that peaceful coexistence between communism and capitalism is not only possible but desirable. After all, it explains, this just gives communism more time to take over.

It says, for instance:

"Communists have never held that the road to revolution lies necessarily through wars between countries. The great objective of the working class can be realized without war."

The real chiller is Moscow's idea of what should be happening through that long twilight period of peaceful coexistence — that everywhere Communists should be trying to take over whatever country they're in.

The means may vary but the central theme is revolution. The revolution may not necessarily be violent, if, for example, Communists could get elected in enough numbers to control a parliament and thus take over government.

The program sounds a little skeptical that Communists are going to conquer many places without violent revolution. It says: "Leninism maintains, and that the ruling classes do not yield power of their own free will."

That's the polite way of saying you'll have to fight for it, boys.

The program emphasizes that one country after another should be knocked off from within—to avoid war—although the exact method will vary from country to country, depending on how much and what kind of opposition there is.

This advice is given: "The success of the struggle which the working class wages for the victory of the revolution will depend on how well the working class and its party master the use of all forms of struggle—peaceful and non-peaceful, parliamentary and extra-parliamentary—and how well they are prepared to replace one form of struggle by another as quickly and unexpectedly as possible."

The Russians are too practical to assume that Communists outside Russia will have enough sense to do things right by themselves.

So the program reassures them: "The Communist party of the Soviet Union will continue to strengthen the unity and cohesion of the ranks of the great army of Communists of all countries."

Boiled down to one sentence this means for unnumbered years ahead Communists everywhere around the world, with Russian help, will be trying to knock off one country after another—hoping all eventually will fall under the Red banner.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Cloudy to partly cloudy conditions prevailed over Ohio during the night. Some widely scattered thundershowers occurred around the state, but no severe weather was reported.

However, there were some locally heavy rainfall amounts over the past 24 hours, with Larue reporting 2 inches, and Piketon and Prospect 7 of an inch.

The humidity was in the 90s at dawn this morning, and most places reported light fog.

Early morning temperatures were in the upper 60s over the northern third of the state, and in the lower 70s elsewhere. Toledo and Youngstown had 68, Columbus 71, Marietta 73, and Cincinnati 75.

A very weak, nearly stationary front extending from Missouri eastward across Central Illinois and Indiana is forecast to move little during the next 24 hours. Scattered thundershowers will move eastward into Ohio from this frontal area, occurring mostly in the afternoon and night through Thursday, with some locally heavy rain likely.

Little change is foreseen in the warm and humid conditions.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average near normal. Normal high 83-84, normal low 61-65. No important temperature changes until turning cooler Sunday or Monday. Rainfall will average around one inch in scattered showers or thunder showers Wednesday night and Thursday, and again Sunday and Monday.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO —Temperatures will average near or a little above normal. Normal high 86, normal low 62. Rainfall will average one-half to one inch, with locally heavier amounts. Scattered thundershowers are possible throughout the period.

Construction Firm Awarded Extra Payment

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A three-man board of arbitrators has approved payment to Ferrell Construction Co. of Canton of $23,100 above the contract price for the construction of the Akron-Canton Airport terminal.

The arbitrators said $15,000 was due Ferrell Construction because the company in 1959 received a premature notice to begin work on the job. Rest of the fee was for expenses.

The weight of the concrete pressed him into soft sand. Other workers who pulled him out said the sand absorbed the shock and saved Irwin from any broken bones. He was in good condition at St. Vincent Charity Hospital.

Hemingway's Death Report Is Left Blank

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP)—Filing of the official death certificate has failed to solve the mystery of the violent death of author Ernest Hemingway.

Blaine County Coroner Ray McGoldrick confirmed that he left blank the space which would have shown whether the death was an accident or a suicide.

The certificates are not made public.

Hemingway's body was found in a foyer of the living room of his Ketchum hunting lodge, July 2. He had been killed by a blast from one of his favorite shotguns.

McGoldrick told The Associated Press in response to questions that the cause of death listed under the medical report section of the certificate said Hemingway died of a "self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head."

"That was the only thing put on there," he said.

Idaho death certificates also provide space for the coroner to specify if the death was an accident, suicide or homicide.

Asked if he left that space blank, McGoldrick replied: "I sure did."

He ruled out the possibility that an insurance company might bring legal action in an attempt to force a ruling on the death.

Hemingway, McGoldrick said, "did not have any insurance at

Ore Consumption Is below 1960

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. and Canadian steel mills consumed 46,537,601 gross tons of iron ore in the first half of 1961, compared with 66,641,571 tons in the corresponding period last year, the American Iron Ore Association reported today.

Of the amount consumed, 43,191,485 was used by U.S. mills, down about 20 million tons from a year ago. The total for Canada was 3,346,116, compared with 3,427,293 in the first half of 1960. As of the end of June, 55,180,977 gross tons of ore were stockpiled at mills in the U.S. and Canada, compared with 49,054,794 on June 30, 1960.

Hemingway's Death Report Is Left Blank

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP)—Filing of the official death certificate has failed to solve the mystery of the violent death of author Ernest Hemingway. Blaine County Coroner Ray McGoldrick confirmed that he left blank the space which would have shown whether the death was an accident or a suicide. The certificates are not made public. Hemingway's body was found in a foyer of the living room of his Ketchum hunting lodge, July 2. He had been killed by a blast from one of his favorite shotguns. McGoldrick told The Associated Press in response to questions that the cause of death listed under the medical report section of the certificate said Hemingway died of a "self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head." "That was the only thing put on there," he said.

Idaho death certificates also provide space for the coroner to specify if the death was an accident, suicide or homicide. Asked if he left that space blank, McGoldrick replied: "I sure did." He ruled out the possibility that an insurance company might bring legal action in an attempt to force a ruling on the death. Hemingway, McGoldrick said, "did not have any insurance at

STAR GRANGE

A fish supper was enjoyed Tuesday evening when members of Star Grange met in the Monroe School auditorium. The worthy Master Paul Long presided over the business session. The secretary, Mrs. Helen Schleich read "Thank You" notes from Mrs. Joe Rogers for flowers and cards received while she was in the hospital and from Mrs. Wendell Hott for the cook book she received as a wedding gift from the Grange. The Home Economics Chairman, Mrs. Francis Furniss, announced the county sewing and baking contest will be held at the next Pomona Grange meeting at Saltcreek Grange on Friday evening August 11.

A contribution was made to the Volunteer Service Council of the State Hospital and also to The Pilot Dog Inc.

Harold Furniss, county youth chairman, reported on the county wide picnic held at Tar Hollow last Sunday and announced that Miss Joanna Hunsinger of Star Grange was chosen to represent Pickaway county as the Princess at the State Grange Convention and Allen Peters of Nebraska Grange as Prince. Larry Mallett and Sue Rihl were chosen as alternates.

The lecturer, Mrs. Charles Smith opened her program "A Man's Best Friend, His Dog" with group singing "How Much is that Doggie in the Window?" Mrs. Francis Furniss, chaplain gave the thought for the day and Mrs. Smith gave a household tip.

Mrs. Smith then introduced Dick Deacon of Pilot Dogs Inc. who gave an educational talk on pilot dogs and how they are chosen and trained to lead the blind. He was assisted by Richard Everman who showed a film on pilot dogs in action.

County Deputy and Mrs. John F. Dowler were present for inspection and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reid, former members, were also present.

Hostess for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Donohoe, Mrs. Laura Long, Stanley Jones and Harold Adkins.

The next regular meeting date is August 8, and will feature the annual picnic.

Mahoning Welfare Aides

Deny Discrimination

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning County Welfare Department has denied a charge it discriminates against unemployed steelworkers.

A United Steelworkers District 26 spokesman said regular relief clients get about 100 per cent of the relief allowed by law, but recently unemployed steelworkers have been denied money for rent and hospital bills.

Welfare Director I. L. Feuer Tuesday said rent money was furnished only as a last resort in the hope clients would earn their rent money in part-time or spot jobs.

Scioto Valley Tops Exhibits

Scioto Valley Grange received top honors in the judging of grange exhibits yesterday afternoon in the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Many hours of preparation were put into the exhibits this year. All entries showed an originality in display and use of materials, making a difficult task for the judges.

Judges for the competition were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bal-spech, Canal Winchester.

Last year's first place winner, Star Grange, took second place and third place laurels went to Nebraska Grange.

Salt Creek Valley Grange received fourth place awards in the annual test of grange members' abilities to construct an exhibit to meet the fancy of the judge's eye.

Animal Denistry

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Wayne Rehn, a veterinary medical student at the University of Illinois, is experimenting with a method of capping a cow's teeth to prolong its useful life.

It is the cow's version of false teeth.

Capping teeth of cattle was introduced by a Nebraska dentist last year. Sand in sandy pastures or acid from beet pulp diets wears down the teeth. These conditions make mature cattle worthless within three years.

In an experiment at a station, one group of seven and eight-year-old cattle with worn teeth will receive caps and another tooth worn group will remain uncapped.

Research Grants Noted

CLEVELAND (AP) — Western Reserve University says it has received a record total of nearly $7.6 million in research grants for the fiscal year ended June 30.

Crisis in Germany

Geography Adds To Berlin Problem

EDITOR'S NOTE — A wandering line that even splits houses in two is the porous Iron Curtain that separates East from West in the crisis city of Berlin. In this second of a series of articles, AP correspondent Carl Hartman explains the geography of the situation and how it adds to the crisis.

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Try to imagine the city of Washington split in two, with the Capitol in Communist hands and the White House held by the West.

Now try to imagine all the surrounding states east of the Mississippi River also under a Communist satellite government, but with the West still free. Temporary national capital — Columbia, Mo.

If you can get a situation like that clearly in mind, you've come a long way toward understanding what the situation in Berlin looks like on the ground.

Greater Berlin is actually a good deal bigger than Washington—it includes about five times the area and population of the District of Columbia.

The city is split, not by anything so straight as Pennsylvania Avenue, but by a border that meanders some 25 miles through the middle of town, roughly from northwest to southwest. In some places it goes right down the center of once-busy streets. Elsewhere it leaves sidewalks on one side of the line and house doors on the other. There are a few places where it actually splits houses in half.

One of the oddest things about Berlin's little Iron Curtain is that it is so porous. Anyone can go back and forth by foot, car, subway or elevated train. Citizens of West Germany are supposed to get a special pass, but this is quickly given and Communist police rarely ask to see it.

It's a very different story if you try to leave Berlin and visit the surrounding German countryside. For this, special permission is required by the East German Communist authorities, and it is not so easy to get. That Iron Curtain is not so porous.

In a crisis, the Communists might seal off East Berlin from West Berlin, almost as effectively as they have sealed off Berlin from the rest of Germany. It is their legal right to stay in Berlin and have access to it that the Western powers have chosen to defend.

"How did Berlin get into this odd fix?"
In 1944, when the allies of World

War II were advancing toward Germany's borders, they got together in London and decided how they were going to rule the country when they reached it. They divided Germany into occupation zones.

Berlin was to be in the middle of the Soviet occupation zone. But since the allies were to rule the country jointly they devised a special setup for the capital. Each occupying power got an occupation sector within the city itself, but all were to work together. This scheme broke down in the conflicts among the allies after war ended.

West Germany — the British, French and American occupation zones—became the Federal Republic of Germany with its capital at Bonn, a little university town on the Rhine. Western troops stayed on as allies.

East Germany—the Soviet occupation zone—became the "German Democratic Republic," with its capital in East Berlin. The Soviets also continued to maintain their troops.

The Federal Republic and its allies refused to have anything to do with the Soviet satellite, officially. The rest of the world, except for the Communist bloc, followed suit. Nevertheless, East German Communist officials took over more and more authority. They came to control all land and water routes to West Berlin, so far as German traffic was concerned.

The air lanes were all that remained in allied hands. Only small amounts of Western road and rail traffic, most of its military, continued to be checked through to Berlin by the Russians. Even official American trains were drawn by East German locomotives.

But when an official U.S. car drew up to the Iron Curtain border station at Helmstedt, on its way to Berlin, there was still a Soviet soldier on hand — not an East German — to check its papers. That Soviet soldier symbolized Moscow's acceptance of Western rights in Berlin. When he waved the car on to the highway, he was saying in effect: "Go ahead — Moscow is standing by your right to go to Berlin."

The disappearance of this vestige of four-power rule is threatened by the Soviet promise to sign a peace treaty with its East German satellite before end of 1961. Such a treaty would withdraw the Soviet soldiers at Helmstedt and put an East German in their places, representing a government the United States doesn't recognize.

Would Washington let the driver of the official American car show his papers to the East German? Would the East German shoot if he didn't? Would the American shoot back?

Soviet officers might also be withdrawn from the Air Safety Center. The East Germans already have published a decree ceding on all planes entering their territory to report to another center run by themselves. Would they fire on a Western plane if it refused?

YOUNG BRIDGE 'WIZ' — Mark Leake, six-year-old bridge wizard from Memphis, Tenn., leads with a diamond ace as he takes on Charlie Gordon, one of the nation's top players, at the opening of the National Contract Bridge Championship in Washington, D.C. New CD Program's Value Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's new Civil Defense plan could save at least 10 to 15 million lives in the event of a thermonuclear attack, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today.

He told the House Military Operations subcommittee that the program calls for shelter space to give "a reasonably adequate protection" for about one-quarter of the population.

McNamara testified that no financially practicable program could save an estimated 50 million Americans who might be killed and some 20 million more who could be seriously injured by a massive hydrogen bomb attack.

Faith, Work Save Boy Said To Be 'Dying'

NEW YORK (AP)—A 2½-year-old boy who doctors said would die within a year is a healthy and normal child today, thanks to a Chicago specialist, a newspaper and a lot of New Yorkers who cared.

The youngster, Andrew Gottesman of Brooklyn, was born with "mixed-up insides." His appendix was on the wrong side. His alimentary tract was incomplete. His kidneys did not function properly.

Andrew was slowly dying of uremic poisoning. The doctors told the boy's mother, Betty Gottesman, 32, that the case was hopeless.

Two months ago, the mother went to the New York Daily News with her story. The newspaper printed an article on it, asking: "Must this brave little lad die now?"

People began to call Mrs. Gottesman with suggestions and offers of aid. One of them said her daughter had suffered from a similar condition and had been successfully treated by Dr. Ovar Swensen of Chicago.

The American Legion of Brooklyn offered financial help and a month ago Mrs. Gottesman took Andrew to Chicago.

After an examination, Swensen decided the case was not hopeless. He performed two operations on the child.

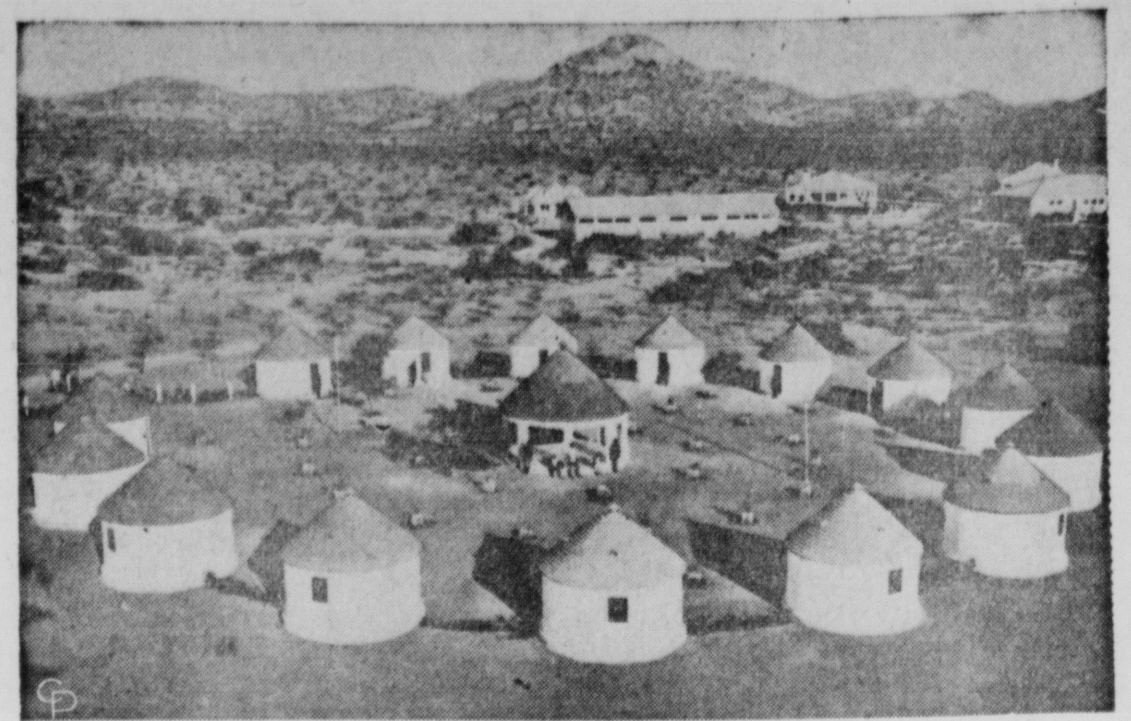

Andrew was back home Monday playing and romping on the floor like any other healthy child of his age.

While in Russia, Al Ahran said, Castro will receive the Lenin Peace Prize awarded him last April.

The Cuban embassy said it could not confirm the report.

Jet Test Flights To Be Conducted In This Area

Low level test flights of a B-66 twin-engine jet aircraft will be made over three routes, including an area between Circleville and Chillicothe, in the vicinity of Wright - Patterson Air Force Base starting this week.

The flight, from 200 to 1,000 feet, will be made at about 300 miles per hour to gather gust data which will be used to determine the structural life of present and future military aircraft. AFB officials said the data could also be applied to design of commercial aircraft.

The test flights in this area will be on a line from a point midway between London and West Jefferson, extending southeasterly to a point midway between Circleville and Chillicothe.

An identical program of flights was made near WPAFB last March to provide turbulence data during the winter months. The same program was conducted in California in September, 1959.

Admiral Rickover Has Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the atomic submarine pioneer, is in a hospital after what the Navy describes as a mild heart attack.

In answer to questions, the Navy said today that the heart attack occurred last Tuesday.

"He is now sitting up and his condition is considered excellent," the Navy said, adding that no surgery was performed.

Rickover is a patient at the Navy hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md.

The 61-year-old Rickover, a small and driving bundle of energy, has taken virtually no vacations during the decade he has devoted to pushing the adoption of a nuclear submarine program and overseeing developments of the atomic powered plants which have gone into submarines, carrier, destroyer and cruiser type ships.

Q. Will the wearing of contact lenses prevent further nearsightedness?

A. So far as we know there have been no accurate statistical studies which prove or disprove the claim that contact lenses stop the progress of nearsightedness. Ophthalmologists (M.D.'s who specialize in eye disorders) have observed that contact lenses rarely need changing within a 4- to 5-year period. This may be due to a molding effect of the lens on the cornea. Whether this ever results in permanent eye change for the better hasn't been proved.

Q. If the world's population continues to increase at the present rate, how long will it take to overpopulate the earth?

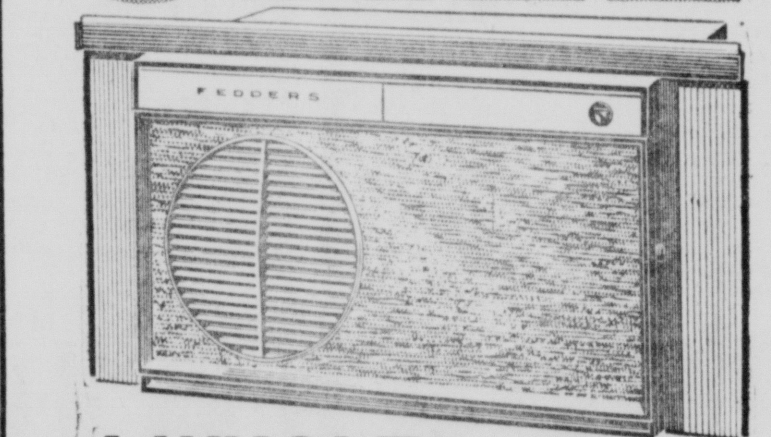

A. At the beginning of the Christian Era, the population of the earth was about 250 million. By 1650 it had doubled. The world population today is about 2500 million (2½ billion). Some scientists estimate that if the present trend continues, by A.D. 2026 (just 65 years from now), our great-grandchildren will no longer have room to breathe, let alone stand. More conservative men of science put off the dire date for another 700 years. Regardless of who is right, "standing room only" is in prospect for those who are around to welcome the third millennium A.D.

Q. Does the drinking of wine cause gout?

A. Not according to a San Francisco doctor. Medical histories of 200 gout patients showed no connection between the disease and the drinking of wine. Gout is an hereditary disorder due to a supposed abnormality in excretion of uric acid by the kidneys. Gouty attacks may last a few days to a few weeks. Usually one joint is involved, the great toe being most commonly affected.

Crisis in Germany

Geography Adds To Berlin Problem

EDITOR'S NOTE — A wandering line that even splits houses in two is the porous Iron Curtain that separates East from West in the crisis city of Berlin. In this second of a series of articles, AP correspondent Carl Hartman explains the geography of the situation and how it adds to the crisis.

By CARL HARTMAN
BERLIN (AP)—Try to imagine the city of Washington split in two, with the Capitol in Communist hands and the White House held by the West.

Now try to imagine all the surrounding states east of the Mississippi River also under a Communist satellite government, but with the West still free. Temporary national capital — Columbia, Mo.

If you can get a situation like that clearly in mind, you've come a long way toward understanding what the situation in Berlin looks like on the ground.

Greater Berlin is actually a good deal bigger than Washington—it includes about five times the area and population of the District of Columbia.

The city is split, not by anything so straight as Pennsylvania Avenue, but by a border that meanders some 25 miles through the middle of town, roughly from northwest to southwest. In some places it goes right down the center of once-busy streets. Elsewhere it leaves sidewalks on one side of the line and house doors on the other. There are a few places where it actually splits houses in half.

One of the oddest things about Berlin's little Iron Curtain is that it is so porous. Anyone can go back and forth by foot, car, subway or elevated train. Citizens of West Germany are supposed to get a special pass, but this is quickly given and Communist police rarely ask to see it.

It's a very different story if you try to leave Berlin and visit the surrounding German countryside. For this, special permission is required by the East German Communist authorities, and it is not so easy to get. That Iron Curtain is not so porous.

In a crisis, the Communists might seal off East Berlin from West Berlin, almost as effectively as they have sealed off Berlin from the rest of Germany. It is their legal right to stay in Berlin and have access to it that the Western powers have chosen to defend.

"How did Berlin get into this odd fix?"

In 1944, when the allies of World

War II were advancing toward Germany's borders, they got together in London and decided how they were going to rule the country when they reached it. They divided Germany into occupation zones.

Berlin was to be in the middle of the Soviet occupation zone. But since the allies were to rule the country jointly they devised a special setup for the capital. Each occupying power got an occupation sector within the city itself, but all were to work together. This scheme broke down in the conflicts among the allies after war ended.

West Germany — the British, French and American occupation zones—became the Federal Republic of Germany with its capital at Bonn, a little university town on the Rhine. Western troops stayed on as allies.

East Germany—the Soviet occupation zone—became the "German Democratic Republic," with its capital in East Berlin. The Soviets also continued to maintain their troops.

The Federal Republic and its allies refused to have anything to do with the Soviet satellite, officially. The rest of the world, except for the Communist bloc, followed suit. Nevertheless, East German communist officials took over more and more authority. They came to control all land and water routes to West Berlin, so far as German traffic was concerned.

The air lanes were all that remained in allied hands. Only small amounts of Western road and rail traffic, most of its military, continued to be checked through to Berlin by the Russians. Even official American trains were drawn by East German locomotives.

But when an official U.S. car drew up to the Iron Curtain border station at Helmstedt, on its way to Berlin, there was still a Soviet soldier on hand — not an East German — to check its papers. That Soviet soldier symbolized Moscow's acceptance of Western rights in Berlin. When he waved the car on to the highway, he was saying in effect: "Go ahead — Moscow is standing by your right to go to Berlin."

The disappearance of this vestige of four-power rule is threatened by the Soviet promise to sign a peace treaty with its East German satellite before end of 1961. Such a treaty would withdraw the Soviet soldiers at Helmstedt and put an East German in their places, representing a government the United States doesn't recognize.

Would Washington let the driver of the official American car show his papers to the East German? Would the East German shoot if he didn't? Would the American shoot back?

Soviet officers might also be withdrawn from the Air Safety Center. The East Germans already have published a decree calling on all planes entering their territory to report to another center run by themselves. Would they fire on a Western plane if it refused?

New CD Program's Value Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's new Civil Defense plan could save at least 10 to 15 million lives in the event of a thermonuclear attack, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today.

He told the House Military Operations subcommittee that the program calls for shelter space to give "a reasonably adequate protection" for about one-quarter of the population.

McNamara testified that no financially practicable program could save an estimated 50 million Americans who might be killed and some 20 million more who could be seriously injured by a massive hydrogen bomb attack.

Rain Mars Program

Double Heat Wins
Mark First Races

Battling driving rains and a heavy track, three favorites churned around the Pickaway County Fairgrounds half-mile oval to wrap up double heat wins before a slim crowd in yesterday's Fair harness opener.

Cutie Hill, owned by the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus and driven by Carl Larson led a field of 12 two-year-old pacers all the way in both heats of the first race.

In coping the $1,740 purse and the George W. Van Camp Co. blanket, Cutie Hill clipped the first heat in a brisk 2:06 3-5. The capital city entry managed the fourth heat at 2:10 over a muddy track.

Dolly Jackson, leased and driven by Frank Lanum of Washington C. H., broke out of a three-way battle with Gabe Hanover and New Port Laurel late in the second lap to take the 26-class trot first heat in 2:13 3-5 in the second race.

THE FAYETTE County filly returned to roll away with the fifth heat, leading all the way to win in a flat 2:12 for a $500 purse and the Shaeffer Tire blanket.

Mona Hill, another Hill Distributing Co. entry piloted by Larson, came out on top in both third race heats in some intense competition.

The three-year-old trotter pulled away from Royal Ambrose and Philip Paul to capture the third heat by a length in 2:08 4-5. In the sixth heat, with a $1,495 pot and the Sturm & Dillard Co. blanket at stake, Mona Hill burst home by three lengths after laying back in the third slot most of the race. Her time was an even 2:12.

First race entries and finishes were: Cutie Hill (1-1); Starbound (2-4); F S J (3-2); Chita Can (4-3); I'm A Gander (5-5); Grand Gratten (6-6); Likely Lad (7-9); Mark's Jerry (8-7); Macwick (9-8); C. B. Adios (10-drawn); Grand Supreme (11-11); and Sue H. (12-10).

In the second race: Dolly Jackson (1-1); Ole Neder (2-3); Mr. Munda (3-7); Cario (4-6); New Port Laurel (5-4); My Valiant Lady (6-5); Dudley's Dandy (7-8); and Gabe Hanover (8-2).

The third race: Mona Hill (1-1); Philip Paul (2-3); Royal Ambrose (3-4); Spanish Dancer (4-2); Sweet Renee (5-withdrawn); Wolf's Pilot (6-6); and Julian's Away (7-5).

A FULL card of harness contests was on tap for Fairgoers this afternoon. The final race program for the 1961 Pickaway County Fair will open at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Revised Schedule
Listed for Playoff

All activity in the District No. 8 Ohio Amateur Softball Tournament at Ted Lewis Park has been halted so far this week as a result of heavy rains.

Tournament officials previously announced that any contests rained out would be moved to the next night's schedule. As the playoff now stands, games originally set Monday night will be played to-night. The first bout is slated to begin at 7:15 p. m. while the back half of the doublebill will start at 8:30 p. m.

Average age of the Detroit Tiger infield is 23 years.

Ford Poised
To Collect
His 20th Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford, the Yankees' superb left-hander, guns for his 14th straight victory today and admittance to major league baseball's 20-game winning set.

An outstanding hurler since he came up to the Yanks in 1950, Whitey never has hit the 20-win marker although he has led the American League in won-lost percentage. His high mark was the 19-6 record in the 1956 season.

This time he figures to make it easily. He could go as high as 30 if he continues to get the breaks and Luis Arroyo remains fit.

Manager Ralph Houk, suspended for five days and fined $250 for bumping umpire Ed Hurley last Sunday, won't be around to see Ford pitch one of the two games against the Kansas City Athletics today.

Ford's record is 19-2. He has started 25 games and finished nine. He tops the league in strikeouts with 148 and has a 3.17 earned run average.

Arroyo, 34, a right-hander whose screwball breaks away from a right-handed batter, has a 7-3 record, an ERA of 1.75, and has saved 21 games. As the Ford specialist he has gone to Whitey's rescue 14 times. He has saved 11 for Ford, got two wins himself and lost one.

Sam Baker Appears To Be Punt Choice

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Sam Baker appears to have the Cleveland Browns' punting duties wrapped up. Baker, a 6-foot-2, 217-pounder who played a Oregon State, was eighth in the NFL standings in punting last year with a 41.98 yard average.

He was the Browns' field goal marksman last year, hitting on 12 of 20 attempts.

Players Want
2 'Star' Games

Baseball Owners Due
To Make Decision

BOSTON (AP) — The fate of two All-Star baseball games per season is in the laps of the owners. The players have come out solidly for continuation.

The major league player representatives Tuesday agreed to ask Commissioner Ford Frick to appoint a player-owner committee to explore the pros and cons of continuing the two-game system inaugurated in 1959.

Pitcher Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates, National League player representative, said the players want two games. He said he hoped that within two weeks a committee meeting with the owners can be arranged though a final decision is not expected prior to the December major league meetings at Miami Beach.

The other major action of the player group following the second All-Star game here was the drafting of a letter to each club owner requesting all possible action to alleviate any racial discrimination in housing during spring training, especially on Florida's West Coast.

The players' legal counsel, Judge Robert Cannon, said that he and Frank Scott, the players' agent, had talked with Frick and the two league presidents.

"As of this moment, we are satisfied baseball has done everything humanly possible to alleviate conditions, particularly on the West Coast of Florida, relative to housing all players, colored and white under the same roof," Cannon said.

Cannon said the ultimate aim of the players' group is to get all athletes housed under one roof in first-class accommodations.

"We do not regard this as a Negro problem," Cannon said. "It is a problem for major league baseball."

Tourney Times Determined for Youth Leagues

Two Youth Baseball Program championships will go on the line in post-season playoffs scheduled by Program co-director Roger Bennington, it was announced today.

In the Babe Ruth League major circuit, power-rich DuPont is set to face hurling-heavy Kiwanis in a best-of-three series to determine disposition of the loop crown.

The first scrap begins at 5 p. m. tomorrow on the Ted Lewis Park main diamond. The second contest opens at 10 a. m. Saturday. A third game, if necessary, will be played at 5 p. m. next Tuesday.

In the Little Minor League, Ward's Market, champions of the red division, will clash with an as-yet-undetermined black division foe.

The schedule for this playoff set will hinge on the outcome of a tie game and a protest pending before the league's governing board.

Exhibition Match Set

Circleville's Babe Ruth League All-Star team, runnerup in the recent BRL district tournament, will play an exhibition game with a Babe Ruth squad from Whitehall at 2 p. m. Sunday at Ted Lewis Park.

George Altman of the Cubs began the 1961 season with an average of .255 for 254 games over two seasons.

Rain Mars Program

Double Heat Wins Mark First Races

Battling driving rains and a heavy track, three favorites churned around the Pickaway County Fairgrounds half-mile oval to wrap up double heat wins before a slim crowd in yesterday's Fair harness opener.

Cutie Hill, owned by the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus and driven by Carl Larson led a field of 12 two-year-old pacers all the way in both heats of the first race.

In coping the $1,740 purse and the George W. Van Camp Co. blanket, Cutie Hill clipped the first heat in a brisk 2:06 3/5. The capital city entry managed the fourth heat at 2:10 over a muddy track.

Dolly Jackson, leased and driven by Frank Lanum of Washington C. H., broke out of a three-way battle with Gabe Hanover and New Port Laurel late in the second lap to take the 26-class trot first heat in 2:13 3/5 in the second race.

THE FAYETTE County filly returned to roll away with the fifth heat, leading all the way to win in a flat 2:12 for a $500 purse and the Shaeffer Tire blanket.

Mona Hill, another Hill Distributing Co. entry piloted by Larson, came out on top in both third race heats in some intense competition.

The three-year-old trotter pulled away from Royal Ambrose and Philip Paul to capture the third heat by a length in 2:08 4/5. In the sixth heat, with a $1,495 pot and the Sturm & Dillard Co. blanket at stake, Mona Hill burst home by three lengths after laying back in the third slot most of the race. Her time was an even 2:12.

First race entries and finishes were: Cutie Hill (1-1); Starbound (2-4); F S J (3-2); Chita Can (4-3); I'm A Gander (5-5); Grand Gratten (6-6); Likely Lad (7-9); Mark's Jerry (8-7); Macwick (9-8); C. B. Adios (10-drawn); Grand Supreme (11-11); and Sue H. (12-10).

In the second race: Dolly Jackson (1-1); Ole Neder (2-3); Mr. Munda (3-7); Carlo (4-6); New Port Laurel (5-4); My Valient Lady (6-5); Dudley's Dandy (7-8); and Gabe Hanover (8-2).

The third race: Mona Hill (1-1); Philip Paul (2-3); Royal Ambrose (3-4); Spanish Dancer (4-2); Sweet Renee (5-with drawn); Wolf's Pilot (6-6); and Julian's Away (7-5).

A FULL card of harness contests was on tap for Fairgoers this afternoon. The final race program for the 1961 Pickaway County Fair will open at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Kingston Still Leads Loop

Hallsville, with one game to play looms as a threat to deadlock powerful Kingston in the first round of the Tarlton Athletic Club softball league.

The Hallsville squad currently holds a 5-1 won-lost count. Kingston finished the first half of the season with a 6-1 record.

The home Tarlton outfit has a secure grip on second place in the first half with a 5-2 mark. Kiser's Market of Yellowbud is 3-2 with two contests to resolve. Palm's team has a 3-3 slate with one game to go and Larry's Barber Shop stands 2-3 with two scraps yet to be played.

Eshelman's trails the field in first round competition on a 1-6 ledger. As soon as first half matches are concluded, league teams will move into the second round schedule.

Orioles, Giants Pursue Bids in Pennant Chases

Frisco Crew Ready To Joust Dodgers In Two-Day Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With the two-day All-Star game break off the way, the surging Baltimore Orioles and San Francisco Giants reopen their bids today to make three-way battles of the major league races.

The Orioles, third in the National League and eight games back of the leading Dodgers, take the direct and more dangerous route. They face the Dodgers—the hottest club in the majors with eight straight victories—tonight at Los Angeles in the first game of a two-day series. The Giants have won five of their last seven.

To make it even tougher for the Giants they run into Johnny Podres (13-2) in the opener. The stocky southpaw has won five straight. He will be opposed by right-hander Juan Marichal (7-7).

While the coast clubs are battling away, the Cincinnati Reds entertain their favorite pigeons. They meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a three-game set, starting with a doubleheader tonight. The Reds are 12-0 over the Phillies and thanks to the forlorn cellar-dwellers are only a half game back of the Dodgers.

The Reds will send Jim O'Toole (10-8) and Joey Jay (14-6) against Philadelphia's Don Ferrarese (2-7) and Johnny Buzhardt (3-10).

In the other National League games Milwaukee pits Bob Buhl (8-8) and Bobby Hendley (3-3) against the Cubs' Glen Hobbie (7-11) and Jack Curtis (7-5) in a day doubleheader at Chicago and Pittsburgh matches Bob Friend (10-13) against the Cards' Larry Jackson (6-8) in a nighter at St. Louis.

The Orioles, who swept three out of four from the Yanks before the All-Star halt and seven of their last eight, are 8½ games back of the American League-leading New Yorkers and seven behind the second-place Detroit Tigers. With the doubleheaders coming up, the Orioles have a solid chance to gain ground with their solid, improving young pitching staff.

The Orioles will call on Chuck Estrada (8-5) and Dick Hall (5-4) to oppose Minnesota's Pedro Ramos (8-11) and Don Lee (3-2) at Baltimore tonight.

The Yanks, minus their suspended manager Ralph Houk, sends Whitey Ford (19-2) and Ralph Terry (6-1) against Kansas City's Jim Archer (7-5) and Bob Shaw (6-9) at the Yankee Stadium. Ford guns for his 14th straight victory and his first 20-win season. His high mark was 19-6 in 1956.

Detroit is at home against Washington, Don Mossi (10-2) and Phil Regan (9-6) oppose the Senators' Joe McClain (7-11) and Marty Kutyna (6-2).

Cleveland's fourth-place Indians, now 11½ games back of first, pit Jim Perry (8-8) and Jim Grant (9-5) against Ray Herbert (7-9) and Cal McLish (6-10) of Chicago's fifth-place White Sox at Cleveland.

Los Angeles and the Red Sox clash in two at Boston with the Angels' Jim Donohue (4-4) and Ron Moeller (4-6) opposing the Devoek (5-6) and Tracy Stallard (0-0).

He made his 12th save Tuesday night as the second-place Bisons beat Jersey City twice, 5-4 and 3-2, and cut Columbus' lead to 7½ games. Officially Surkont's record is 7-4. He has appeared in 36 games, pitched 68 2-3 innings, yielded 71 hits, struck out 59 and walked only 19.

In other IL games, Columbus beat Syracuse 6-3, Charleston defeated Toronto 6-2 and Rochester and Richmond divided a doubleheader, both by 2 to 1 scores.

The high-flying Jets defeated the cellar-dwelling Chiefs for the 13th time in 15 contests.

Winning pitcher Alvin Jackson swung a potent bat in his behalf as he rapped a double, which helped tie the score at 1-1, and a leadoff triple in the seventh when Columbus scored four times.

good chance to knock off the Philadelphia Eagles Friday night in Soldier Field.

The oddsmakers, however, have rated the National Football League champions two-touchdown favorites. It's hard to go against the pros, who have won 17 of the 27 games played in the series. There have been two ties.

But it's no secret the Eagles have a quarterback problem without Norm Van Brocklin, who led them to the NFL crown. This, parlayed with what appears to be an exceptional college squad, heightens the chances of head coach Otto Graham's collection of graduated campus heroes.

Graham has going for him a game-breaking combination similar to the one he used in beating the Detroit Lions 35-19 in 1958. Then, flat passes by Jim Nowinski to mercurial Bobby Mitchell paid off on touchdown sprints of 84 and 18 yards.

Against the Eagles he can alternate three outstanding quarterbacks out of the T and spread formations—Norm Snead of Wake Forest, Bill Kilmer of UCLA and Tom Matte of Ohio State.

Among a brigade of receivers is Navy's All-America, Joe Bellino. He is Mitchell-like with flat passes.

Although the All-Stars are heading for the air, it doesn't mean the Eagles are going to head for the hills. The pros have a secondary that is one of the best in the NFL—Tom Brookshier, Bob Freeman, Jimmy Carr and Don Burroughs.

Defensively, the collegians look as if they have enough left to stop a stampede. They'll need it against such Eagle runners as Clarence Peaks, Ted Dean, Billy Barnes, Tim Brown and Heron Sapp.

The All-Stars will limber up under the lights of Soldier Field tonight to get acquainted with its vastness. A crowd of 65,000 or more is expected for the game, which will be televised by ABC starting at 9 p.m. EST.

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old Lima boy addicted to practicing "quick draws" has learned for a second time that his trigger finger is quicker than his draw.

Vaughn Piper is reported in fairly good condition today in St. Rita's Hospital. Police said he was practicing with a .22-caliber revolver Monday when it went off in his holster and wounded his right leg.

The same thing happened to young Piper several months ago. He may be out of action longer this time, as the bullet hit bone.

Packer quarterback Bart Starr and end Gary Knefale are Green Bay Television sports announcers.

Accused Slayers on Drinking Spree

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Three judges hearing evidence to decide the fate of two Michigan men accused of killing a Detroit taxi driver were told Tuesday that they had been drinking steadily for five days to the slaying last Jan. 22.

The testimony came from Mrs. Maggie Taylor, mother of 21-year-old Jerry Taylor, and Mrs. Thelma Taylor, sister of Raymond McDonald, 27.

Taylor and McDonald have admitted killing Elmer Walker, 30, whose cab they had hired. Walker's body was found near Fostoria.

Taiwan, the Chinese name for Formosa, means "Bay of Terraces". Portuguese explorers called it Ilha Formosa, "Beautiful Island."

The Passing Parade

BALTIMORE (AP)—The status symbol that once belonged to locomotive engineers — the power to make a loud noise — apparently has passed to truck drivers.

Several truckers in this area recently sounded their air horns to the delight of children who had leaned from their passing automobiles and gestured as if pulling whistle cords.

Carpenter Gets Silver Wings As Naval Pilot

Ensign David E. Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Carpenter, N. Pickaway St., has earned his wings as a naval aviator.

Ensign Carpenter received his wings in recent ceremonies at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi, Tex. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and the naval pilot's grandfather, James Carpenter, attended the event.

Carpenter, a graduate of Circleville High School, entered the Naval Air Cadet program at Pensacola, Fla., in December of 1959. Here he completed basic training and preflight school.

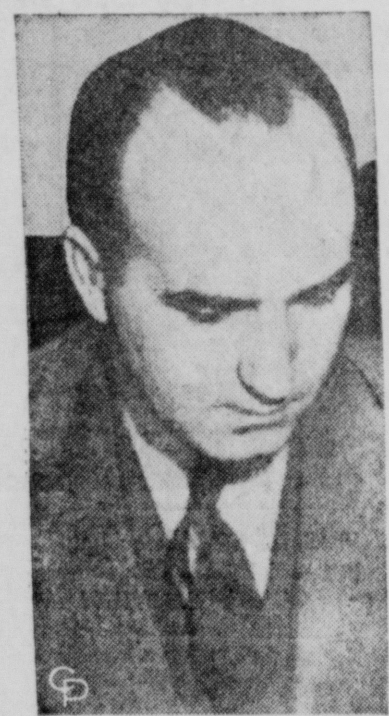

The local aviator was transferred to Corpus Christi in January of this year for advanced training and work with multi-engine planes.

ENSIGN CARPENTER left Sunday for his new assignment at Barbers Point, Hawaii. He will be assigned to Squadron 21 of the Military Air Transport Command.

The naval pilot participated in football and other activities while at CHS. He was a varsity end on the grid squad.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter recently received a letter from Admiral L. J. Kirm, chief of Naval Air Advanced Training at Corpus Christi, congratulating them their son's designation as a naval pilot.

Admiral Kirm noted that the achievement is the result of many months of hard and demanding work which involved proficiency in academics as well as flying. He said the training program is so designed in order to assure the highest quality naval pilot possible.
